

'Control Industrial Juggernaut,' Philip Advises

MONTREAL (CP) — Prince Philip today described industry as "a juggernaut that tends to run away with people."

It has to be held in check and controlled by the people who operate it, he told a brisk press conference.

The session was a prelude to the prince's Second Commonwealth Study Conference, opening later today at the University of Montreal.

In a precise and friendly manner, the prince replied without hesitation to a wide variety of questions—some of them on topics such as the European Common Market, Quebec separatism and criticism of the Royal Family—and tried to put them all in the perspective of the study conference.

Object of the conference, he said, is to make people worry about the industrial juggernaut.

"Its importance will be in the effect it has on the people who participate," he said.

The worst aspects of industrial change weigh upon management as well as labor, he said. "Both sides get ulcers."

Then, glancing at Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, who was sitting at his right, Prince Philip said with a broad smile:

"Perhaps when you get to be a labor leader, you get the worst variety of ulcer."

One reporter, apologizing in advance for asking a question with political implications, wondered whether Philip would comment on the possible implications for the Commonwealth of the European Common Market.

Philip held up a hand and said dryly he wasn't going to answer because he had already been accused by the London Daily Express, a newspaper owned by Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, of taking sides on the issue.

Then he added that the market raises an enormous number of very important issues but it would be better to have them discussed in the privacy of the conference sessions.

Asked why the conference sessions are to be closed to the press, the Prince replied that the aim of the conference is to give the members a new experience that could help shape their thinking. It was not intended to be a forum at which either management or labor sought to win a point.

If the sessions were open, Philip said, no group could, discuss the things that mattered. "They'd be pilloried if they said the things they should say."

Philip defended newspapers' right to criticize the Royal Family, but suggested they steer clear "from gossip that's not always true."

Asked whether he would like to answer criticisms of the Royal Family in United Kingdom newspapers, he replied, with a broad grin that he is not against criticism because it is essential.

"It's a very important function in a free country," he said. "No matter how much one resented ill-informed criticism, at least it gives one a clue to what people are really thinking."

He added that he has absolutely nothing against such criticism. What he did resent was innuendo and gossip that was not always true.

Hydro Chief Blasts McNaughton

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside of B.C. Hydro Saturday roundly condemned the "McNaughton plan" for developing the Columbia River.

The McNaughton plan would flood three times as much land as the present Columbia treaty plan, and result in a large financial deficit for 15 to 20 years, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said.

The chairman of the provincial hydro authority said the suggestions of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton would:

- Cost more than the present plan.
- Produce less money.
- Flood much more and better land.
- Delay the whole program of development of the river for the joint benefit of Canada and the U.S.

Dr. Keenleyside made a detailed analysis of the McNaughton plan in a speech to the annual dinner and reunion of 150 Canadian Expeditionary Force, Imperial and other veterans who served before the end of the First World War. The dinner was at Saanichton Masonic Hall.

Plans Contrasted

Dr. Keenleyside contrasted the present Columbia plan, which would flood the Columbia Valley from the Arrow Lakes, with the McNaughton plan, which would flood the Kootenay Valley.

The present plan, basis of a treaty with the U.S., requires three dams in B.C.—Duncan Lake, Arrow Lakes and Mica Creek.

The McNaughton plan would include Mica, but the main project would be diversion of the Kootenay River into the Columbia with a Luxor-Dorr, Bull River complex of dams.

Dr. Keenleyside said the general plan had been examined "over and over again" by engineers and economists of both federal and provincial governments.

"After consideration of all the implications involved his proposals have been repeatedly and unanimously turned down."

These experts included members of both the Canada-B.C. policy liaison committee and the technical committee working on the present treaty.

"There was agreement in every case that the McNaughton proposals would be less beneficial to B.C. and to Canada than the projects which were finally incorporated in the treaty."

11 Reasons

Dr. Keenleyside supported these statements with a catalogue of 11 reasons:

1. The extra power provided would be only 15 per cent not the 45 per cent claimed by some people, and it would not all be firm power.
2. Flooding the East Kootenay Valley would create a 120-mile "major water barrier" 60 feet deep across the southern part of B.C.
3. A total of 90,000 acres and 2,000 people would be flooded out, compared with 30,000 acres and 2,000 people under the present plan.
4. The Americans demanded a long term contract to buy 275,000 kilowatts of power at approximately the same price as U.S. rates—only half of what it would cost Canada to produce; this would mean a $5,000,000-a-year loss.

"Let's go guv" and "dig that crazy bus," are two comments that likely will be heard frequently this summer from kibitzers riding double-deck London buses along Victoria waterfront. Imported by Harold Olafson for a new sight-seeing service, they

SHOTS FIRED IN RHODESIA DAY OF RIOT

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—After a day of sporadic violence during which police several times fired tear gas at Negro demonstrators trying to enforce a 24-hour work stoppage, shooting broke out this afternoon.

A police spokesman said that after police suffered four separate incidents of assault and stoning they opened fire.

One report said at least four Negroes had been wounded by police gunfire.

Police said they were stoned while trying to protect Negroes returning from work in disobedience of the strike call.

An army spokesman said earlier that elements of the regular all-white Rhodesian Light Infantry had been ordered in to help police maintain law and order.

'SAD-EYED PRINCESS' WEDS PRINCE

(Times News Services)

ATHENS—Prince Juan Carlos of Spain and Princess Sophie of Greece were married today in two religious ceremonies as tens of thousands of excited Greeks cheered.

The 24-year-old prince, groomed by Generalissimo Francisco Franco to occupy the long-vacant Spanish throne, first was married to the 23-year-old daughter of Greece's rulers in his own faith at the Roman Catholic cathedral of St. Denis.

They rode together through the streets to the royal palace, smiling and waving to the cheering throngs. Then they separated and were driven to the Greek Orthodox cathedral for the orthodox ceremony required by Greek law and Sophie's faith.

GIVES APPROVAL

Pope John gave special approval of the Roman-Orthodox union after the princess pledged to bring up her children in her husband's church.

Church bells rang, artillery guns roared out a salute and a gathering of 120 royal guests along with hundreds of officials and Greek and Spanish society looked on as the prince and Princess took their vows.

Juan Carlos, a curly-haired six-footer, wore the uniform of a Spanish army officer.

SAD EYES HAPPY

The tall, slim bride—known as the "sad-eyed princess"—smiled happily and was so excited she almost tripped over the 20-foot train of her wedding dress. The gown had a regal flaring skirt with a tightly-fitted waist and long sleeves.

Sophie was attended by eight bridesmaids, all princesses of the royal houses of Europe.

Harbord To Head Appeal

Two developments today virtually guaranteed that the United Appeal will be "on" again this year and with a flying start.

Justin Harbord, a city insurance executive, confirmed that he has accepted an invitation to fill the campaign chairman's post for a third time.

Mayor R. B. Wilson immediately urged everyone to help the campaign with their dollars and backed his words with deeds—pledging a month's mayoralty salary of $500 to the campaign in addition to his normal contribution.

"Third and Last Time"

ISSUE NOT IN DOUBT

Community Chest president George Gregory said the organization's directors—who have been frantically looking for a campaign chairman in a last-ditch effort to save the United Appeal—will decide the issue at a meeting Friday.

However, he said he had no doubt the campaign would go forward.

Mr. Harbord is entering the field for the second time as a pinch-hitter to help the 22 Red Feather agencies.

He was campaign chairman in 1958 and Chest president the following year.

Last year, he re-assumed the presidency when a resignation left it vacant and doubled up his service by running the campaign as well.

"This is my third, and last, time," he observed today. "I accepted again as a matter of conscience."

Mr. Harbord said "too many people would be hurt if the Community Chest was dissolved and I just couldn't let that happen."

Mayor Wilson, a former Chest president, spoke to Mr. Harbord about the campaign over the weekend, hailed the acceptance as a "wonderful gesture involving terrific personal sacrifice" which would save the Chest.

"He really deserves a rest after the magnificent work he already has done for the Chest," Mayor Wilson said.

"It's now up to all of us to give Mr. Harbord and the Chest our fullest financial support."

"In the hope that others will follow and support the United Appeal to the utmost of their ability, I will give one month of my mayor's salary to the Chest this year in addition to my usual contribution."

Mayor Wilson's gesture—in tribute to Mr. Harbord's renewed community service—amounts to a sizeable $500 on top of his regular donation.

KIRK PASTOR OUSTED, SO WORSHIPPERS QUIT

NEW YORK (CP)—Morning service at the Broadway Presbyterian Church was disrupted Sunday when more than 275 parishioners walked out to protest the ousting of their minister, Rev. Stuart Hamilton Merriam.

Removal of the minister last Monday started a controversy among Presbyterian clergymen here and drew criticism from the Canadian-born minister emeritus of one of New York City's largest Presbyterian churches.

The presbytery of New York removed Rev. Merriam and the session elders of the Broadway church from their posts.

The move was prompted, it was reported, because Rev. Merriam had introduced his dog during his inaugural sermon a year ago and his intercession with the U.S. state department over an Iranian student at Columbia University who accused the Iranian government of corruption.

The presbytery took the position that the incident threatened to embarrass the United States and cause difficulty for Presbyterian missions in Iran.

Just before Rev. J. Carter

Swain started his sermon Sunday, supporters of Rev. Merriam stood up and filed out of the church.

Rev. Merriam was at the service. Immediately after the walkout, he attended a service held by his supporters in the church basement.

About 125 persons remained in the church proper to hear Rev. Craydon McClelland, general presbyter of the New York presbytery, read an explanation of the action.

He said:

"Dr. Merriam appears to have a compulsive desire for publicity. Dr. Merriam has displayed a degree of irresponsibility about his obligations to the agencies of the presbytery."

He said the elders were removed for not being "aware of the seriousness of Mr. Merriam's leadership deficiencies."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Judy, a white and brown spaniel has disappeared from home, 1259 Oliver Street, and her eight-year-old master, Andrew Potter, is heartbroken.

She left the house "like a streak of lightning" two days ago, according to Andrew's mother, and hasn't been seen since.

Andrew has heard that some dogs run away to die and is afraid that Judy, "no longer a puppy" might have done this. The dog might have been picked up as "lost" by some kindhearted neighbor, however.

If this is the case, Andrew would like to claim his dog. Her Oak Bay licence number is 287.

HAMILTON (CP) — A wee bit of Scotland was included Sunday in the Social Credit weekend with announcement of the adoption of a tartan for the party by leader Robert Thompson here.

5. The McNaughton plan would have resulted in fewer downstream benefits to Canada's credit—a loss of "several millions" a year.

6. The McNaughton plan would have prevented development of very low cost power by Cominco on the West Kootenay.

7. The plan had "difficult and costly" engineering problems and possibly could not have been completed in time to meet U.S. requirements.

8. It would not have permitted such high benefit-cost ratio as the Arrow Lakes-Duncan treaty plan.

9. The general plan would have created an erratic flow on the Columbia River, causing wide fluctuation of at-site power generation in Canada.

Recreation Effect

10. It would also seriously affect the recreational potential of the Columbia and Windermere Lakes region, which should become "a major playground area."

11. Diversion of the Kootenay would not be possible until the entire Canadian Columbia development had been finished—meaning that for 15 to 20 years the heavy cost (more than $1,800,000,000) would be charged to a small financial deficit would be built up in the early years.

After a long personal association with the general, Dr. Keenleyside said he holds him "in the very highest regard."

"He is a man of great ability and of complete integrity. He is a great Canadian."

"Because I hold him in such high regard, both as a friend and as a public servant, it is to me a cause of profound regret to see him, as he approaches the end of his remarkable career, entering into a controversy in which he is opposed by all informed opinion except his own."

Better Treaty

Dr. Keenleyside said it has been suggested that Ottawa favored a better treaty plan—the McNaughton scheme—which B.C. turned down.

"The program that B.C. turned down included the flooding of both the Arrow Lakes region and the East Kootenay Valley," said Dr. Keenleyside.

"So what?" you might ask. "Who cares if the carb's clean as long as it works all right?" That's the point of course. Pile up of dirt, fumes and grime in the carburetor can cause rough idling, even stalling. Especially in stop-and-start city traffic. "So I adjust the mix", you say. Fine. Only trouble is a richer mix means you burn more gas. And finally you have to clean the carburetor anyway — and this means a service charge.

"So, what's so special about Royalite gasoline?" you ask, weakening. Just this: a detergent ingredient in Royalite gasoline will clean out grimy carbs and keep them clean. No need for a richer mix. SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Canada needs a permanent advisory council to act as watchdog over the country's economic health, Walter L. Gordon, chief financial critic for the Liberal party, said today.

Mr. Gordon was chairman of the 1955 royal commission on Canada's economic prospects. He said it is high time the commission on Canada's "comprehensive program to bring prosperity back to Canada" is implemented.

K Host at Surprise Lunch Party

USOVO, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Premier Khrushchev played host to Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary, and U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Sunday at a surprise luncheon meeting believed to have included discussion of Laos, Berlin and other world crises.

Thompson confirmed that he and Khrushchev had a short, serious talk during the five-hour meeting, which also included Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Thompson refused to disclose what was discussed.

Khrushchev unexpectedly arranged the luncheon the day after he had given Salinger his views on major world problems at a seven-hour meeting at which the premier's son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubel, was host.

U.S. sources said Salinger told Khrushchev Saturday he had no authority to undertake negotiations and this would have to be done through Thompson. Khrushchev then insisted that Salinger come back Sunday, bringing the ambassador, Mrs. Thompson and their two children, Jennie 12 and Sherry 8.

RELAYS VIEWS

Salinger had relayed to President Kennedy the views expressed by Khrushchev Saturday, but informants said no reply had arrived from the White House in time for Sunday's luncheon session.

The Sunday gathering also came as a surprise to Adzhubel, who had invited leading Moscow intellectuals for a luncheon honoring Salinger at a Moscow restaurant.

Khrushchev, who uses the country residence only for entertaining, arrived with his wife Nina, son Sergei and some of his grandchildren about 40 minutes after Salinger and the Thompsons got there.

Salinger arrived Friday for a six-day visit and talks with Soviet officials on stepping up exchange of news and information between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Fun, Games for U.K. Tars Excepting 2 Dope Suspects

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two crew members, suspected in a narcotics smuggling incident, remained under arrest aboard the HMS Belfast Sunday, but others among the 790 officers in the ship's company were ashore for fun and games.

The Belfast, largest cruiser in the Royal Navy and flagship of the British Far East Fleet, arrived in Vancouver harbor Saturday morning for a five-day visit.

En route home to Portsmouth, England, with a crew that has served in the Far East for 18 months, she will leave here Thursday for Victoria, where she is to participate in Victoria city's centennial celebrations before heading for the Panama Canal and home May 22.

The 10,000-ton ship, commanded by Capt. Morgan Giles, was assigned to the long way home when the United Kingdom high commissioner in Ottawa requested a Royal Navy craft to participate in Victoria's centennial observations.

En route here, the Belfast stopped at San Francisco and Seattle, and these ports of call, along with Vancouver, were considered as possible destinations for 45 pounds of narcotics found aboard her before she reached San Francisco.

TELLS OF CASE

Capt. Giles gave reporters some details of the case when the ship docked Saturday.

He said the two suspects, arrested at sea, will be tried when they arrive home in mid-June.

Both are Chinese, one a Hong Kong rating, recruited from the native population there as a full-fledged RN sailor, and the other an unofficial member of the crew. The latter is, in effect, a civilian employee.

The ship carries 23, unofficial crew, employed as laundrymen, tailors and so on, and 49 Hong Kong ratings.

Captain Giles said a 22-pound cache of raw heroin and opium was discovered in a suitcase aboard the ship during a routine search.

ried out each time a Royal Navy vessel leaves the Far East. A cache of similar size was found behind a light fixture after the ship received a radio message advising that narcotics may have been taken aboard.

Captain Giles said he did not know which port the shipment was intended for, but that it likely was aimed at a North American point, where the narcotics, worth less than $5,000 at prices in Singapore, where they are believed to have come aboard, might fetch between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 if sold on illicit markets.

Two other Chinese from the ship's unofficial crew were missing when the ship came here.

Crowds visited the Belfast Sunday when she was opened to the public for several hours.

FURTHER TORY LOSS IN U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — The Liberal and Labor parties reported further gains in urban and district elections Saturday — more support for the argument that the Conservative government's economic policies are unpopular.

A Liberal party spokesman said the party won 139 of 298 seats contested Saturday with a net gain of 110 seats. The Labor party said it won 87 and lost 23 contests Saturday for a gain of 64 seats.

Most of the Labor and Liberal gains were made at Conservative expense.

Marine Crash Indicated; Bodies Found

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The possibility of a collision at sea was raised Sunday after the bodies of six men — some eaten by sharks — were found floating in life preservers four miles off this southern California resort.

The coast guard said five of the six were known to have been on a pleasure cruiser reported missing since Saturday night with eight aboard.

The sixth man may have been a passenger on another vessel. Search vessels were ordered to recover all debris in the area to determine if two craft were involved.

Identified so far: Chester McMain of Norwalk, Calif., owner of the missing 25-foot cruiser, the Happy Jack, and Charles Chuty of Downey, Calif.

Deputy Coroner Eugene Miller said three of the bodies had been eaten by sharks.

"Only the head and parts of the torso were left of two of the men," he said.

McMain's boat left early Saturday on a fishing trip. His wife called authorities when it failed to return Saturday night.

What every wife should know ... about her husband's life insurance. How many "I don't know's" would you score on this test?

1. How many policies does your husband own? Does he have group insurance where he works? How much is the total amount of protection provided?
2. Are any of his policies just temporary? How old will you be when this temporary protection terminates?
3. Is your husband's life insurance co-ordinated into a program? Is there a part earmarked to pay off the mortgage; to educate the children? How much income would it pay now? How long would it last?

It makes good sense for a wife to be well informed about her husband's insurance. Her security is the number one objective and it's through her budgeting skill that money can be set aside for the future. If you and your husband would like to review any of these questions, just call the Man from Manufacturers. You'll find him a competent and friendly adviser.

The End of the Line

MOST OF THE Diefenbaker government's newspaper allies are attempting to disguise a flight from the Canadian dollar as a marvellous achievement by Mr. Fleming. But the influential Toronto Globe and Mail, which supports the government, is too honest for such chicanery.

"Neither individuals nor nations," it says, "can spend themselves rich. Government action in accepting a formal and fixed depreciation of our dollar tells us, as bluntly as is possible, that we have reached the end of our line of international credit."

By accepting a fixed rate of exchange, The Globe and Mail adds, the government "has given a signal to the nation. But while the fixing of the rate may suggest stability, and the low rate of exchange may offer business opportunities, nothing will be gained unless the signal is followed by positive action. Government must provide leadership. Government—and any party which aspires to govern—cannot expect the nation to acknowledge that we have been living beyond our means if it continues to indulge in heedless spending; it cannot expect the nation to buckle down to hard work if it continues to assert benefits can be had for nothing."

Yet this is exactly the assertion of Mr. Fleming's last budget. He raised it to a new high, at the cost of his sixth successive deficit, to attract the voters. That latest repudiation of his 1960 promise to balance the budget did not go unnoted among the investors of the world.

The Globe and Mail's parliamentary correspondent thus reports the world's reaction: "Ottawa sources have said that the heavy selling of Canadian dollars that began about ten days ago was largely the result of an adverse reaction in international financial circles to the April 10 budget and the $745,000,000 deficit forecast."

In plain terms the financial irresponsibility of this government has depleted Canada's account of confidence throughout the world.

All this apparently staggered Mr. Fleming. On April 10 he told Parliament firmly that he did not intend to devalue the dollar further or put it on a fixed rate with the help of the International Monetary Fund. He was quite capable of holding it at the desired figure of about 92.5 cents and would not undertake "any hasty action which would prove to be premature or impossible to sustain."

Within three weeks he was driven into the latest of many reversals and, in panic, sought the support of the Fund to hold the dollar at 92.5 cents.

What else could he do? If the flight from our dollar continued much longer, if our currency reserves continued to fall in massive hemorrhage, national bankruptcy must soon follow.

Nevertheless, Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming, together with their journalistic friends, try to tell us that the decline in the value of every Canadian's money actually enriches him.

This decline was inevitable. It merely expressed the real truth of our national impoverishment after five years of management by the present government. But it will be difficult for the government to disguise the truth of these events until June 18. The people have enough time yet to see what is happening to their own savings and who is responsible for their shrinkage.

Liberals Moving Up

IN THE WAKE OF ITS spectacular byelection victory at Orpington and its near-miss at Blackpool, Britain's Liberal Party showed all the elements of a grassroots revival in the municipal elections completed throughout the country last week.

This has the appearance of a groundswell which could lift the Liberals back once more to a challenging position in British politics—a position from which they declined after the heyday of Lloyd George.

It may be early yet to forecast a prolonged resurgence from the party's recent successes. But in a nation which considers its municipal elections a good barometer of political weather, the Liberals have some reason to expect a better place in the sun than they have known for years.

The municipal results are, of course, a blow to Mr. Macmillan. They probably reflect dissatisfaction on the voters' part with the wage pause and taxation policies his Conservative government has imposed—policies which could still prove sound though they might be unpopular.

But it would be a mistake to read into this significant Liberal upswing any direct criticism of the government's move toward the European Common Market. The Liberals gained most in the municipal field, and the Liberals were the first and most enthusiastic proponents of the Common Market among major British parties. The votes for them can scarcely be interpreted as an attack on official British policy in this respect.

His Boomerang Came Back

EIGHTEEN MONTHS AGO, when organized labor and the CCF were completing their courting period, the British Columbia Liberal leader asked permission to enter the parlor and speak his piece before the marriage.

Organized labor, which was paying the rent, said, in the correct language of business courtesy, "Sorry, but no."

This, in effect, was the course following when Mr. Ray Perrault sought an opportunity to address the B.C. Federation of Labor at its 1960 convention. The federation was justified in its stand. It was hiring the hall. It had the right to set its own program, to invite whom it wished to speak to the membership. No reasonable person can object to that principle.

But having adhered to it in 1960, the B.C. Federation is under some obligation to honor the principle in 1962. Hence, when three major concerns in this province, decline to permit union officials to solicit campaign funds or make political speeches on company property at the lunch hour, or any other time, they are merely taking the same position adopted by the B.C. Federation of Labor at the earlier date.

The companies understand very clearly that employees may do what they wish politically on the employees' own time and premises. There can be no management intrusion there. But the firms have an equal right to say what shall take place in the company plant.

The companies own the premises. They can refuse their use for political purposes. If they feel that political speeches or campaign fund solicitation has no place on their property, reasonable people should accept their ruling.

Mr. Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, who told a Kamloops audience recently that "Conduct of this kind is much more at home in some fascist dictatorships than in a country that boasts of its democratic institutions," should re-think his position. Certainly, fair-minded labor men employed by the three big companies will recognize the right of industry and business to exclude, if they wish, partisan politics from their places of operation.

More Honors for Mr. Lippmann

IN THE NORTH AMERICAN newspaper world—and beyond—few names enjoy greater prestige than that of Mr. Walter Lippmann.

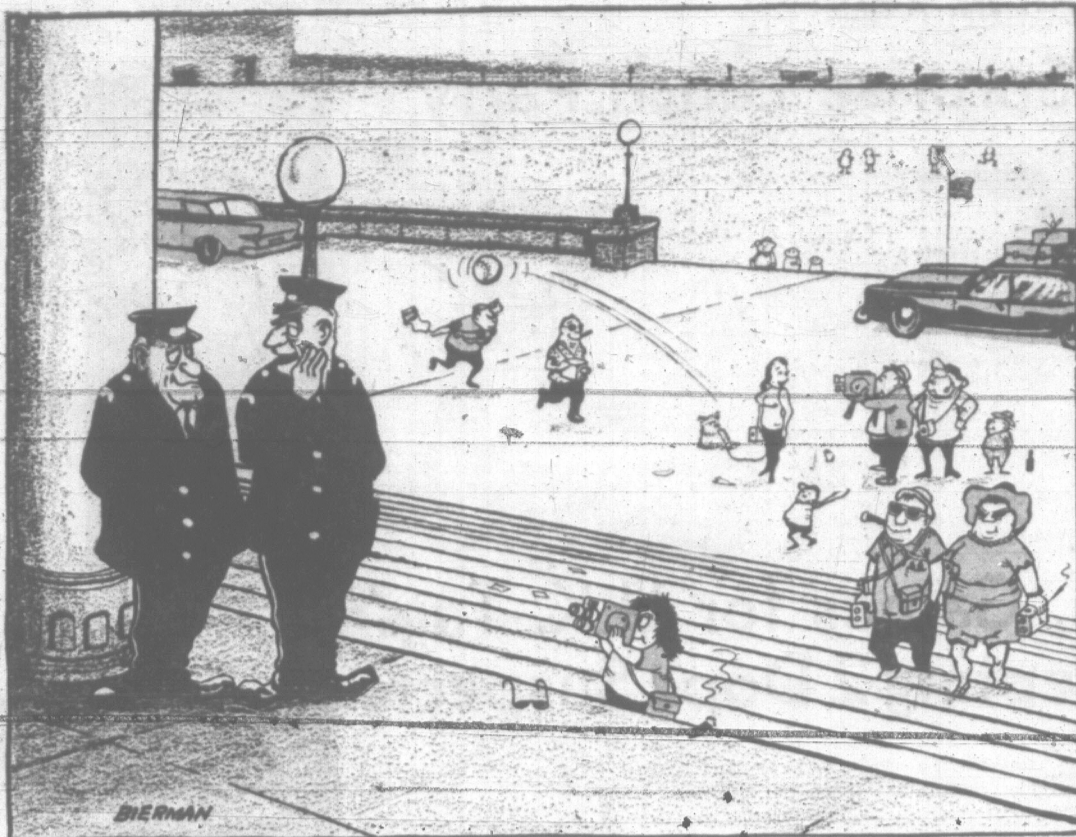

It is not surprising to learn that the Pulitzer Prize committee has cited the distinguished syndicated writer again this year for wise and responsible international reporting. This is a citation also earned by Mr. Lippmann in 1938 and one of many honors conferred upon him.

Readers of the Victoria Daily Times will note the award with interest since Mr. Lippmann's thoughtful column has appeared on this page over a long period of years. Perhaps never before has his opinion and his method of expressing it been more useful.

Mr. Lippmann is now in his seventies. He has had wide experience in politics and statecraft, knows administrative problems and appreciates the nuances of diplomacy as few others in his profession. Moreover he can bring to his analysis of events a broad background of scholarship invaluable in these times.

It is gratifying to learn that a professional group of the Pulitzer Prize committee's stature has singled his work out again for its wisdom and responsibility. No commodities are more essential at this point in history in the nation that has assumed western leadership.

What Happened to the Great Diversion?

Times Ottawa Bureau

THE Diefenbaker government has mismanaged Canada's foreign trade because its policies were based, from the start, on false premises.

In the first place, it misconceived the drastically altered economic situation of the free world, denied that any fundamental change was under way and, when confronted at last with the truth, vainly tried to stop the change.

Secondly, the government misconceived Canada's own situation, attempted to revise it and completely failed in the attempt.

For the moment the government blurs these facts by saying that Canada's total exports have risen under its wise management. So they have, but by no means in proportion to its growth of population, its industrial capacity or its need of exports. And the pattern of the increase in total trade, exports and imports, has been almost exactly opposite to the government's prescriptions and promise.

Its misjudgment of trade possibilities began with Mr. Diefenbaker's famous proposal of 1957 to divert some 15 per cent of Canada's imports from the United States to Britain. While he has disputed the quotations attributed to him by experienced reporters, his determination to import proportionately more from Britain and less from the United States was never questioned.

Biggest Factor

Probably, indeed, the most powerful factor in his electoral victory of 1957 and his nation-wide sweep in 1958 was his posture as the supreme advocate of Commonwealth trade, the only reliable overseas champion of Britain, the guardian of Canada's independence from the commercial pressures of the United States.

Previous articles on this page have recalled Britain's excited welcome to him at a prime ministers' conference immediately after he took office, the impression that he would massively increase British sales in Canada and then his horrified rejection of Britain's free trade offer.

All the illusions built up in Britain by Mr. Diefenbaker's passionate Commonwealth sentiments and his political success at home quickly faded into the current acrimony between Ottawa and London.

But what, in fact, had happened to the huge trade diversion promised by the Canadian government? The latest figures, after nearly five years of Conservative rule, supply a clear answer.

Anti-Climax

In 1958, the first full year of the Diefenbaker administration, Canada imported from Britain goods worth $326 millions. Last year these imports reached a total of $388 millions. Thus in a period when Canada's population and its total (though not its per capita) wealth greatly increased, its British imports grew by only $62 millions. In British eyes this is naturally regarded as a bitterly disappointing figure, an almost ludicrous anti-climax from the brave promises of 1957.

During the same period, however, Canada was doing much better in the British market. Its 1958 exports to Britain were valued at $773 millions. They reached $923 millions last year—a gain of $150 millions.

The result was that Britain suffered a trade deficit in Canada of $247 millions in 1958 and $335 millions in 1961. Britain's hopeful expectations were turned upside down when Mr. Diefenbaker's Commonwealth sentiments, as expressed in oratory, were found in actual experience to be strictly sentimental.

In the practical facts of commerce Britain finds its relations with Canada still worsening. Its deficit here last year was $22 millions greater than that of 1960.

Meanwhile the bold plan of trade diversion out of the United States had collapsed.

Imports Rose

In 1958 Canada's imports from the United States stood at $3,572 millions and shocked Mr. Diefenbaker. They had not fallen as he hoped but had risen by 1961 to $3,831 millions—an increase under his government of $259 millions, and a complete reversal of his election promise.

If Canada had diverted 15 per cent of its imports from the United States to Britain, as apparently Britain expected, the latest figures would have been very different.

In 1958, when the diversion dream was still widely accepted on both sides of the Atlantic, 16 per cent of Canada's imports from the United States would have amounted to about $535 millions. If Britain had been enjoying that business last year it would have accumulated a surplus in Canada of some $200 millions instead of the actual $325 millions of deficit.

All this may surprise the disillusioned British government and people. Yet it was inherent and inevitable in the real intentions of the Canadian government as distinguished from its oratory.

Despite its misconception of the free world's prospects, it was perfectly consistent on one point. As another article will show, it had determined to protect the Canadian market from inconvenient British (and other) competition while electing itself as Britain's only true friend.

GETTING THE MESSAGE

And Now in Conclusion Let Me Say . . .

It seems that one or two of the candidates in the federal election have been questioning the value of campaign meetings. Attendances at the neighborhood gatherings are notoriously small and are usually confined to the faithful supporters of the candidate. They all agree with him, they all intend to vote for him, most of them are working for him. So what, it is asked, is the use of spending an hour or two in lecturing them, preaching to the converted and soliciting their votes?

It is a very appropriate question. The only odd thing about it is that it should have been asked at this late date. The situation must have occurred in every election since they began having them. Has nobody noticed it until now?

Actually, a political meeting with nobody there but the speaker, perhaps with a few friends and relatives, can still be of some value. In running over his arguments aloud, the speaker himself may learn what he thinks.

Spoken into the air of an empty hall his words may sound hollow and unconvincing, so that he will be able to reassess his thinking and change his tune. With no one else to hear him he may hear himself.

Lend Me Your Ears

Take candidate Doakes, for instance. On the platform of a hall able to hold 200 he faces his wife and one-year-old baby, his sister-in-law, two friendly neighbors and their house guest.

Such an audience is not likely to bring out the best in him as an orator. But the hall is his, he has the floor, and if he shuts his eyes and disregards the echo, he may imagine he is appearing before a packed house.

"Mr. Chairman, er, that is, my friends, I would like to discuss with you the question of exporting hydro power. This is obviously a good policy. If the power is there and we don't need it right away ourselves, then we might as well sell it and get the money. The United States is a great and developing country and they need all the power they can get. They're going to need it in years to come too. So are we, of course, as we exploit our resources more fully. We'll need that power back some day, and the contract must say so. If the U.S. didn't want to give it up when we need it, then we would have to force them. Uh, well, try to force them. As we did once before, during the First Great War, when we needed our power exports back. Of course, as you know, we didn't get them. Perhaps this might happen again. We'd need the power and wouldn't be able to get it back. Our industries would suffer while theirs prospered. You know, on second thought, I wonder if hydro power export is such a good policy after all. Perhaps we ought to forbid it. I suggest you study the problem and, uh, well study the problem.

"Well, we must move along. I would now like to take up with you the question of tariffs. It is obvious that a high tariff wall is a good thing. It will protect our home industries, keep out the unfair products of cheap foreign workers, and enable us to maintain a well-rounded economy in our country. If we make everything we use, then we'll all be employed. Of course, we want other countries to buy our products too, so we'll make more than we need for our own use and export it. We may have to buy a little from them, of course, so they'll have Canadian money to buy our products with. In fact, we can keep selling them more and more as long as they have enough money to buy with. Perhaps we'd have to buy more and more from them, to provide them with more and more money for our goods. But of course it would give our workers lots of employment, making goods to export. Perhaps we'd have to lower the tariff wall a little so we could buy more from them so they could buy more from us. In fact, come to think of it, the lower our tariff wall was, the more they could sell to us and so get more Canadian money to buy from us. Now that I look at it in that way, I'm beginning to think that a tariff wall isn't such a good idea after all.

"Well, now I'd like to talk about . . ."

Food Fit to Eat

May I voice the opinion through your columns that since the subject of tainted liver has come to light, as a housewife I would like to bring to the notice of the public how we are being cheated on the quality of bacon that is put on the store shelves to buy.

I believe in quality and not quantity. At 85c to $1.30 a lb. it's reasonable to expect good bacon. The time is long overdue when our voices should be heard on this matter of food fit to eat.

Skeptical

I have favored meat inspection—provided it is done in a way that will protect the public and be free from graft.

The contaminated meat sold in Ontario was, after all, inspected meat. This recent "do-do" about the sale of abcessed liver has made me highly skeptical. I am wondering who stands to gain and how from meat inspection.

My reasons for being skeptical are: 1. The names of the butcher shop and the abattoir involved have not been disclosed.

2. For such a small sum involved, I doubt that any abattoir operator would allow such a liver to leave his premises.

3. No thinking butcher would sell such liver, much less display it in his showcase.

4. As a customer, would you buy it?

5. A seventeen pound liver would come only from an old animal. I am told that such liver is worth only about 10c a lb. and sold only for cat food. Therefore, just why was this liver sent to a butcher shop, displayed and purchased?

Grateful

May I, through the columns of your newspaper, thank all those who by their generous donations and support, made it possible for the Greater Victoria Schools Symphony Orchestra to travel to Calgary to participate in the Calgary Music Festival and bring home the shield which has been held in Calgary for 17 years.

The members of the orchestra made a fine impression not only with their playing but also with their neat appearance and deportment while they were in Calgary. We, in turn, were impressed with the beautiful Calgary auditorium and the friendliness of the Californians.

Again, my sincere thanks to all those who contributed in any way to our successful trip.

Smoke

As a resident of this beautiful city for the last two years I have read with much interest the reports and comments relative to smoke pollution of the atmosphere.

Coming originally from the potteries in Staffordshire, England, I recall just how those ovens belched foul clouds of black smoke. The smoke inspector used to survey the dense outlook from some convenient height to determine the number of minutes of black smoke emitted from any particular factory and beyond a certain prescribed limit prosecution was inevitable. Since that time, however, electric ovens have superseded the old coal fire way of oven firing with a corresponding decrease in smoke pollution.

Comparatively speaking, Victoria does not have too much of a problem. After all it is the volume that counts—the amount of noxious effluvia per cubic inch of air space.

Your city smoke inspector's claim that carbon monoxide fumes are more of a problem could be right. Well, in that case you can't control the number of cars but you can prevent too much confection by wider streets and highways and proper city planning, to permit of greater diffusion of unwanted fumes.

The health committee is to be commended on its stand to acquire further information re the most effective way of remedying a situation that should not present too great a problem in Victoria.

Unbelieving

Russian cosmonaut Gherman Titov, who completed 17 orbits of the earth, publicly proclaimed at the Seattle World's Fair his disbelief in God and the Sabbath.

He said, "I don't believe in God. I believe in man, his strength, his possibilities, and his reason."

So said Hitler and Mussolini and every other would-be world conqueror.

It is old fashion today to believe that the devil is evil, and that God is good, and that such heartfelt qualities as love, life, and laughter come from God—love, that upon which the whole world revolves, the beautiful warmth of feeling we have for our fellow beings; life, the ever wondrous miracle of a new creation, where in both man and woman sincerely believe they achieve the ultimate; laughter, mankind's natural spontaneous expression of pleasure and happiness giving thanks to God, our Maker.

The tragedy is, Titov there alone in the void with the knowledge of the man-made nuclear horror that can rain down upon our fair earth.

New Cancer Discoveries

The many investigators in the great Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York City just reported a number of hopeful discoveries. They found that the so-called DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) which has so much to do with determining the makeup of an animal or a man—also the transmission of hereditary diseases—has much to do with cancer. A change in the structure of the DNA can produce cancer.

Alvarez

Years ago, my friend Dr. Wendell Stanley, the great virologist, told me he was sure that, with time, we would find that many cancers, not only in animals, but in man, are due to viruses. Now a virus has been found in a transplantable human tumor—a virus that causes a deformity in the immature bones of new-born hamsters (little ratlike animals).

Every such finding is interesting because it adds to the evidence that viruses are present in human cancers as well as in many of the cancers of animals. A virus called Egypt 101 has recently been found in the cancers of 14 patients.

Drugs are being found which slow tumor growth or which protect animals from succumbing to a transplanted cancer tumor. Studies on transplanted cancers show that each one of 10 different types of cancer has a different rate of growth. Ever since the work of Dr. A. C. Broders of the Mayo Clinic, it has been known that cancers have at least four degrees of malignancy.

Type I is very slow to grow and to scatter, while Type 4 is likely to grow rapidly, to scatter rapidly, and to kill rapidly.

Very interesting is the discovery now of a virus-like agent in some cells which took on cancer-like properties after having been grown for some time in tissue cultures in glass tubes.

Hopeful is the discovery that actinomycin D (an antibiotic) either alone, or with X-rays, appears to be helpful in the treatment of certain cancers of children. Also, very interesting is the discovery that a strange virus will protect hamsters against cancer.

No tumors have developed in a colony of 1,500 animals who, some time ago, were infected by the virus isolated from a transplantable human tumor.

All of this can give some hope to those many people now suffering from cancer, or who have a loved relative who is suffering from cancer. Such people write me to ask if any research is being carried out. Actually, an enormous amount of research is being done. Many ask, "Why don't they pour millions of dollars in and have a 'crash program'?" The trouble is that, in order to do good research, one has to find a promising "lead" or "breakthrough."

Only then do the research workers have a hopeful way of attacking the problem of finding either a cure or a protective or preventive remedy or a vaccine or a substance that will greatly slow the growth of the cancer cells. As yet, no cure has been found, but the research men and women keep coming over closer to it.

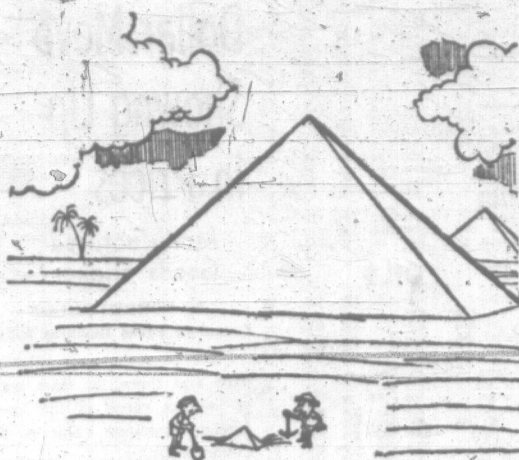

I get many letters from women who, after having given birth to a mongoloid and mentally-retarded child, now want to know what are their chances of having another such child—if they get pregnant again.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Gordon Allen, an expert on genetics, tells of a study in Denmark which turned up four cases of a second mongoloid child among 354 live children born following the birth of a mongoloid baby.

Evidently then the risk is about one chance in 100. In the literature are reports of many families with two mongoloid children, a few with three, and a few with four mongoloids.

Recently there has been a good deal of excitement among patients with multiple sclerosis occasioned by the report that Tolbutamide—a remedy for mild diabetes—could sometimes help. I regret to have to report that, in a recent paper, Captain R. H. Elwell, Captain R. J. Korsak and Lieut.-Col. A. J. Levens of the U.S. Army reported studies on 12 patients which indicated that Tolbutamide has no curative effect. They quoted also Dr. J. B. Foster and his associates who in England studied 40 patients and saw nothing to indicate that Tolbutamide is a cure for multiple sclerosis.

Adenauer to Resign, Says Minority Chief

BERLIN (Reuters).—Erich Mende, leader of the Free Democratic Party, said Sunday he believes West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will resign in the middle of next year.

Mende, whose party is a minority partner in the 86-year-old chancellor's coalition government, was answering questions at a press conference after a speech in which he was critical of Adenauer's recent statements on Berlin.

Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt also criticized Adenauer in a radio speech Sunday night. In his speech to a party meeting Mende said he preferred a "co-operative relationship" between West Germany and the United States to a German-French axis "which could prove very fragile."

Some observers believe Adenauer's recent criticisms of U.S. policy on Berlin indicate he is moving toward an alliance with French President de Gaulle, who has made similar criticisms.

Brandt said Adenauer's pessimistic comment on the U.S. Soviet talks on Berlin had created new "and as I believe, unnecessary understandings."

PARIS (AP)—France and the United States have been split by the atom. Relations between the two old allies have been skidding toward a historic low.

Outwardly the bonds of friendship are as strong as ever. But an undercurrent of reluctance, stubbornness or outright obstruction thwarts co-operation on almost any new project brought up for study.

President de Gaulle is expected to talk about Franco-American relations at a press conference Tuesday. Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville told the National Assembly last week "it is clear that there are differences and divergencies." But he insisted the rift was not serious.

De Gaulle's determination to make France an atomic power is at the heart of the quarrel.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Fragrant Annuals Are Versatile

A garden of fragrant annual flowers can be sophisticated or old fashioned, according to its location and the choice of colors.

For a modern patio complete with pool, beds of fragrant mauve and purple stock with tall white nicotine (tobacco flower) will produce perfume aplenty day and night.

Add a wide edging of white sweet alyssum and the effect will be doubled, for the white will be visible by night as well as fragrant.

Some flowers are noticeably fragrant at certain times of the day, and under particular weather conditions.

Petunias have a definite perfume towards the end of hot summer days, and a bed of mixed colors planted with purple heliotrope (with the old name of Cherry-ple) will make the sitting-out place of any home a mecca for your friends on summer evenings.

Separate colors in plantings schemes are considered more sophisticated than mixed colors. Goodness knows why, but the effect is certainly more harmonious and pleasing in its results.

Some people like the fragrance of the nicotines but complain about the flowers looking wretched during the daytime. There is a strain called Daylight Sensation which remains open all day, has several shades of rose and mauve as well as white, and still has a fair amount of perfume.

However, for those who prefer the white kind, I would suggest interplanting them with either salpiglossis (Painted-tongue), in wonderful muted tones of bronze, purple and gold, or the blue discus (Blue lace-flower of old gardens).

Annuals are versatile, but most of them need plenty of sun to give of their best in both color and fragrance, so don't try growing them in the shade of trees. The minimum of direct sunshine they require from the time they are put out in May through the summer months is eight hours, and while "the morning hours are golden" afternoon sun suits annuals quite as well. Annuals are most accommodating.

SYNOPSIS—There are signs of improvement in the weather picture. A ridge of high pressure lies along the coast and will build eastward into the province in the next 24 hours. This will bring about a gradual drying and warming of the air. For today present cloud cover in many areas will thin out during the afternoon and the sun will push temperatures a few degrees above those of Sunday. Tuesday, too, will be sunny for all but the north coast, where a little more cloud will move in from a storm moving into the Gulf of Alaska.

School Patrols On Ottawa Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 2,000 safety patrol members from all Canadian provinces paraded proudly to Parliament Hill Saturday backed by the music of about a dozen bands. It was the climax of the annual two-day visit to the capital by about 600 selected patrol members who guide school children across busy streets. Patrols from the Ottawa Valley joined the march.

S. Africa Proposes Death Bill

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — The South African government has proposed the death penalty for a sweeping number of offences classified as "sabotage." Even certain types of trespassing would be punishable by death under the new bill, introduced in Parliament Friday and published during the weekend. The minimum sentence for sabotage would be a five-year prison term. The bill makes sabotage subject to the same penalties as treason. The general law amendment bill, as it is called, defines "sabotage" for the first time. The definition ranges over a wide field and an accused person must prove the alleged offence was not calculated. Stern government measures have been widely predicted since the end of 1977, following the outbreak of civil unrest and arson attempts last December.

The outbreaks followed the distribution of posters and pamphlets by an organization called "Spear of the Nation", an underground group pledged to violence.

WORKS AGAINST REDS
New government powers against the outlawed Communist party and Communists included the prohibition of new "front" organizations carrying on the aims of an organization already prohibited under the Suppression of Communism Act.

The bill provides for house arrest of persons convicted under that act, and bans publication of speeches by listed Communists.

Any new newspaper which the minister of justice thinks will further the aims of communism will be required to make a deposit of up to 20,000 rand ($28,000), which would be forfeited if the newspaper is prohibited under the Suppression of Communism Act.

OAK BAY MAN FAVORS CITY TOWN CRIER

Breeches, bell and a three-cornered hat have been recommended as the outfit for an official town crier proposed to city council in a letter from Oak Bay resident W. H. Brimblecombe, 1461 Hampshire.

The letter consists of "a request, to wit:

"That they make possible to themselves and the people of the city, the services of a town crier, properly habited and complete with tinnabulum, urbs and badge, who will serve faithfully in meeting ye boats and coaches officially and graciously to welcome visitors to this fair city."

"To proclaim loudly with bell and voice announcements of general interest, and to advertise garden fetes, entertainment and divers gatherings and matters of interest."

WOMAN GETS 9 MONTHS AFTER FLEECING MOM

VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman, police said, cleaned out her mother's bank account while the mother was ill in hospital, has been sent to jail for nine months.

Mrs. Muriel Lee, 35, had pleaded guilty to forging three cheques totalling $184.

Magistrate Oscar Orr was told that Mrs. Lee spent the estate of her mother, Mrs. Elsie M. Piaggio, prematurely after she was told the mother would not recover from a heart attack. Mrs. Piaggio survived and Mrs. Lee is now trying to make restitution, prosecutor William Seibie said.

MS Group Needs Help for June 2 Tag Day

Multiple sclerosis is the most widespread neurological disease in Canada.

Unsteady walking, stiff muscles and sudden blindness are some of its symptoms.

There is no cure.

Last year 45 volunteer workers, part of the 250-member Multiple Sclerosis Society of Victoria, worked with 100 patients to relieve their suffering, either by helping them with physical or occupational therapy, or by simply offering companionship to these handicapped people.

Without support from the Community Chest — being a completely voluntary organization without any administration costs, they see no reason to incur them — they raised and spent $8,000 last year.

It went on seven wheelchairs, five exerciser bicycles, braces, crutches, mechanical aids for stiffened muscles. It went on radio sets, television sets, typewriters, small comforts to patients confined by this crippling disease.

"I don't know how we're going to continue to support this work," says Mrs. Evelyn Lamont, 2455 Beach Drive, president of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

"We're applying for a government grant, but we're utterly dependent on the generosity of the people in the city. "We have no offices, no paid employees, no administration expenses. All the money we raise goes directly to the patients."

"We need taggers for our tag day on June 2, because it is only through tag days, and the generosity of citizens and of philanthropic organizations that we can keep going."

"The Oak Bay Optimists Club is giving us $175 to lead off with, but we do desperately need taggers for this day."

Pearson Woos Quebec With Facile French

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau
SAINT JEAN, Que.—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson has accomplished a feat which could have a significant influence on the outcome of the federal election.

The feat: He has broken through the "language barrier" of French Canada, apparently establishing a rapport with Quebec voters that was lacking in the 1959 campaign.

In his Friday and Saturday tours through the Eastern Townships it was clear his new facility with the French language was widely appreciated by the natives.

He made 10 speeches, most of them of the brief, 10-minute variety on town hall steps or in church basements, and received warm applause for his efforts in French.

MOSTLY OFF CUFF

Some of his French material was prepared in advance, to avoid slips in delivery, but most of it was completely extemporaneous, halting at times but in accents demonstrating that the reception was a success.

Townpeople were quick to draw comparisons—as were Liberal party spokesmen—between the improved Pearson French and the French of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, generally considered to be badly fractured.

Party officials said Pearson, since the 1958 election, has been determined to polish his French to the point where he could more adequately communicate with French-speaking Canadians.

GOOD RETURN EXPECTED

They say because he has done this Quebec is going to deliver a good majority of Quebec's important 75 seats in the Commons over to the Liberals on June 18.

Pearson did, indeed, give his party cause, for enthusiasm with the welcomes he drew in the Eastern Townships.

At every place he visited Saturday, he was greeted by the blare of a band. At some places—Granby, Marieville, Farnham—parades were formed up to pilot the Pearson cavalcade of cars into town.

Crowds ranging in size from 150 (at Iberville) to 500 (at Farnham) gathered to hear him deliver his French political speech.

He was emphatic on the rights of French Canada.

India Loses Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Senate foreign relations committee, reported to be alarmed by India's rapid military buildup, voted Friday to slash foreign aid to that country.

In its first major action on President Kennedy's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid program for next year, the committee voted 87 to 7 to hold India's share to 75 per cent of the $727,000,000 provided in the current year.

Safety Awards Won By Three Victoria Firms

Safety awards to three Victoria woods product firms have been made by Workmen's Compensation Board.

During 1961 the Victoria plywood division of B.C. Forest Products, McCarter Shingle Ltd. and Roach Logging Co. Ltd. had the best safety records in their categories.

BCEP had the best record for all multiple operations firms in B.C. in addition to its plywood division.

Roach Logging won for being best in the under 50,001 man-hour class and McCarter's won for the shingle mill class of 40,001 to 75,000 man-hours.

Victoria British-Israel Association will hold a public meeting in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort Street, Tuesday at 7.45 p.m. promising a Liberal government would act to give Canada a "distinctive national flag which can be mistaken for the flag of no other country."

And he voiced the hope that "the day will soon come when every Canadian will be able to express himself with equal facility in both of our official languages," admitting his own French was still far from perfect but urging adults, if they did not speak French, to see that their children learned it.

At a civic reception in Granby, Mayor Horace Boivin, who claims he is non-partisan, said Pearson brought "sunshine" to Granby, unlike "some" other political leaders who visited there. (Prime Minister Diefenbaker was there earlier in the campaign.)

SHOWERS OF GIFTS

The day was filled with receptions and presentations of gifts to the Liberal leader. Granby gave him an unbreakable candy dish, a belt with the town colors on it, a martini glass, a bottle of wine, a hot chicken sandwich, at luncheon; Iberville had him lay a wreath at a Laurier monument, and gave him a vin rose at a civic reception.

Farnham gave him "two hands, majorettes, and a troop of youths carrying the Quebec flag, suggested designs for a Canadian flag, and a large white flag bearing a big question mark over the word, Canada.

There was another civic reception, with cocktails, at Saint Jean.

Pearson wound up his Saturday in old Quebec with a speech at the Doremi Hall, in nearby St. Luc for his last stop before returning to Ottawa for a Sunday rest.

$5 PER COUPLE

A Liberal dance was staged at the Doremi Hall and it was attended by about 1,000 persons, who paid $5 per couple to get in.

In his speech he hit out at "feeble government," promising that a Liberal government would "do better and provide for some of the things the country needs—jobs, more economic progress, full opportunity for French-speaking Canada to share in every phase of our national growth and build better for our country's future."

After the reception, Pearson heads back into Quebec, with visits to Bagotville and Chicoutimi, before moving into New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, the only two provinces he has not yet campaigned in.

A northern Ontario tour follows his swing into the Maritimes.

MONTREAL (CP)—African delegates can be expected to play a big part in Prince Philip's second Commonwealth Study Conference, opening today in Montreal.

More than 50 strong—out of a total of 300 delegates—they all come from countries newly independent, or about to become independent, and coping with vast problems of mass education and industrial growth. They hope to learn from the experience of industrially developed countries—and avoid their mistakes.

These mistakes—poorly planned or unplanned communities, towns depending too much on one industry, narrow or unbalanced vocational training, to name a few examples—are the reason for the conference.

Prince Philip is expected to elaborate upon the conference theme, "The Human Consequences of the Changing Industrial Environment," when he gives the keynote speech at the first plenary session late today at the University of Montreal.

The conference, organized and financed by Canadian industry and labor organizations, is a sequel to one the prime ministers, after them.

John Burke King of St. Lucia, president of the St. Lucia Labor Party and a senator of the West Indies federation, said "we shall try to pick out the virtues of Canada and pattern ourselves after them."

$22,157 SETTLEMENT

VANCOUVER (CP)—A youngster, who lost his speech in a traffic accident almost four years ago has been awarded $22,157 damages in an out-of-court settlement.

The money for general and special damages will go to David Edward Reidlinger, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reidlinger.

David suffered extensive brain damage after he was struck by a car driven by Gordon Stevenson, North Vancouver, July 31, 1958.

B.C. prospers with huge growth in trade. Today the world has to queue up at B.C. wharves because of the dynamic sales policy for Canada's exports pushed ahead by the action of your Progressive Conservative government. These are the facts: In four years Canadian exports increased by $900 million—a growth greater than ever before in Canada's history, resulting in 1961 in the first favorable trade balance for Canada, since 1952. More than 180,000 new jobs were created in 1961 alone. New tax relief is helping aggressive exporters and export credits have been substantially increased. Prime Minister Diefenbaker summed up the great strides Canada has made under his ACTION GOVERNMENT in these words: "Canadians worked more, earned more, spent more and saved more over the past year than in any comparable period in our history!"

Bonallack, 27, won the second hole of the round and never was headed.

Bonallack won a dramatic duel at the 31st hole. Both hit their second shots out of bounds and Lunt missed his next shot completely. Bonallack won with 7 against Lunt's 8 and went three up.

Palmer, Pott Vie For Purse Today

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Johnny Pott and Arnold Palmer wound up in a first-place tie Sunday in the $40,000 Colonial national invitation golf tournament.

Palmer and Pott, who moved into the first-place tie after being seven shots back, meet in an 18-hole playoff today for the title and $7,000.

Pott, from Gulf Hills, Miss., fired a one-under-par 69 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 281, one-over-par. Palmer soared to a 76 and missed a 12-foot putt on the final hole that would have given him his sixth title of the year.

Australian Bruce Crampton took a two-over-par six on the 18th green for the second day in a row and wound up one shot behind the leaders at 282. He had a 74 Sunday.

Crampton collected $2,500 for his efforts.

Pott finished first and watched from the clubhouse as Crampton took his two-over-par and Palmer sent his birdie putt right to the lip of the cup, where it died.

George Knudson, of Toronto, shot a 73 Sunday for a four-round total of 301.

Jack Nicklaus also registered a 69 over the 7,112-yard Colonial course and this put him in fourth place with 283, good for $2,000.

Jim Ferree and Gay Brewer shared fifth place with 248's. Ferree closing with a 69 and Brewer with a 72. They split $3,500.

South African Gary Player eliminated himself quickly from competition Sunday. Tied for second with Crampton after 54 holes, he was one-over-par on six of the first nine holes and limped in with a 78 and 286.

He shared that spot with defending champion Doug Sanders, who came in with a 72.

It's Settled: United Out, Firemen In!

VANCOUVER—Victoria United can sit in on the Pacific Coast Soccer League championship playoff... but only as spectators.

It was all decided at Cal-lister Park at the weekend.

Firefighters clinched second-half honors Sunday by defeating Columbus 4-3 in one of the most exciting games of the season.

"The result, combined with Victoria's scoreless draw with Canadians on Saturday, left United on the outside looking in."

NEXT SUNDAY

Firefighters now must play off next Sunday with Columbus; first-half title winner, for the overall league championship and the right to represent Canada in the John F. Kennedy Cup international championships in Los Angeles later this month.

Firefighters had to pull out all the stops for Sunday's victory in a gruelling, hard-fought contest which kept 2,300 fans in a constant uproar.

Columbus took a 1-0 lead on a goal by centre-forward Fred Hughes in the first minute of the game, but firefighters came back with three goals in the next 19 minutes.

Left-winger Louis Trischuk scored two of them and centre-forward Jim Blundell the other.

Before the Firemen had time to settle back with their two-goal lead, however, Columbus had returned to the attack and tallied two goals to tie the score 3-3. Inside left Normie McLeod scored both of them, his 18th and 19th goals of the season.

It was still tied 3-3 at half-time.

Firefighters got the winning goal at the 28th minute mark of the second half, halfback Art Hughes heading in a free kick from Bob Mackay, over the outstretched hands of goalie Danny Pighin.

Columbus pressed hard in the final minutes of the game and several times came within inches of tying the game, the ball sailing just wide of the goal.

United came up with one of its best performances of the season in Cal-lister Park on Saturday, but still couldn't pull out a victory.

FAIR INJURED
The game was marred by injuries to two Victoria players.

First United player to go was Tommy Major, with 25 minutes gone, Major headed a ball into the ground in front of the net. The ball somehow bounced straight up and over the bar, and Major piled into the goalpost, breaking his nose and splitting his lip.

Then with five minutes gone in the second half, a loose ball bounced off the hard-packed pitch and hit half-back Harold Holroyd full in the face.

Holroyd was taken from the field in a dazed condition, suffering from concussion.

ESSEGAN LEADS WAY

Tribe Climbs Past Yankees

(Times News Services)

Chuck Essegian, the chunky outfielder with the musical name, came to the Cleveland Indians for a song, and from the way he's rapping the ball of late, it's the pretest tune heard anywhere by manager Mel McGaha.

In fact Essegian, who wasn't counted on for regular duty when the season began, is wielding such a hot bat that he is making it downright difficult for the platoon conscious McGaha to keep him out of the starting lineup.

Chuck, a failure with five different major league clubs before the Indians got him from Kansas City Athletics a year ago for pitcher Julius Grant, hit a key home run and single Sunday to lead Cleveland to a 6-4 and 8-5 sweep over New York Yankees and into first place in the American League.

Essegian had five hits in eight at-bats during the long afternoon to boost his batting average to .375, his home run total to four and his runs batted in to 11 in 17 games.

SIXTH FOR DONOVAN
Dick Donovan went all the way in the opener to register his sixth victory without a loss.

Jerry Kindall's three-run homer in the second game started the Indians on a comeback after the Yankees had built up a 5-0 lead. Essegian's sixth inning single broke a 5-5 tie and Cleveland went on from there to nail down the second game and take a half-game lead in the AL.

GIANTS STILL ROLLING
Minnesota Twins routed Kansas City Athletics, 10-3; Chicago White Sox rallied for seven runs in the eighth inning to beat Los Angeles Angels, 15-6; Baltimore Orioles beat Washington Senators, 3-2, and Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar by beating Philadelphia Phillies twice, 8-7 and 8-5.

Referee Dave Beloff scored it 74-61. Judge Nick Spane 71-63 and Judge Jack Clayton had 74-64, all in favor of Johnston.

The fight was Johnson's third defense of the title he won by stopping Jesse Bowdry in Miami Beach Feb. 17, 1961. He stopped Von Clay in Philadelphia in April and won a split decision over Eddie Cotton in Seattle Aug. 29.

LOPSIDED WINNER
All three officials had Johnson a lopsided winner in the match witnessed by 5,137 fans who paid $31,784.

Gorge Hotel varied its tactics to sink Navy twice in Sunday's Heywood Avenue Softball League double-header.

In the opener, Gorge came from behind with two runs in the ninth frame to deaden the count at 8-8 and then pulled out a 9-8 victory in the 11th frame as relief pitcher Barry Jackson blanked the Tars over the final five innings.

GOLF SCHOOL

AFRAID OF SAND?
Top many golfers are afraid of the sand trap shot. They jump into the trap, swing quickly (and several times) and hop out.

That's a shame, because they can save strokes if they take their time. I like to work my feet into a firm position. This helps me in two ways:

1. It gives me a firm base for the shot.
2. It helps tell me about the sand's consistency. Remember, you can't touch your clubhead to the sand in addressing the ball.

In the illustration, my feet are still firmly planted in the sand even though my swing is at about the follow-through stage. That's because the sand shot is basically a flat-footed shot. You don't need a lot of body pivot either.

Get a firm base for your sand shots. Squirm the feet down into the sand solidly, and keep them there throughout the shot.

High School Students Uncertain About Future

By IAIN HUNTER

"Which way do I turn? Where do I go from here?"

This was the attitude of some 170 Grade 12 students who went to the National Employment Service offices on Johnson Street last week for free individual counselling from members of trades and professions in Greater Victoria.

Volunteer counsellors said that the students did not seem to know what they wanted to do.

"They have not made up their minds," said an engineer, "they seem almost desperate for advice."

Money considerations did not seem to weigh too heavily with prospective job seekers. One counsellor said he had to bring up the subject of salary himself.

One St. Louis College student said that he asked about the future during his interview "because you have to look into the future." Most are more interested in the demand for the type of work they have in mind.

"A lot of guys I know are fed up with going to school and they just want to get out and get a job," he said.

However, many students left the interview offices with the feeling that they faced further years of study in university or vocational schools.

Joseph Sharples, of the Special Services Branch of the service, who organized the interviews, said that the response of students was encouraging. His office sent out 230 letters to one-third of this year's high school graduating classes, offering interviews on Wednesday night. The offer was accepted by 173 students. Mr. Sharples said that the counsellors were impressed with the eagerness of the pupils interviewed. Some were urged to get in touch with their interviewers after graduation if they were interested.

Stenographers, in particular, are often hired this way, he said.

Counsellors are supplied by three service clubs in the city. On Wednesday night there were 35 on hand to give advice to prospective employees or colleagues.

This is the fifth year the National Employment Service has conducted the counselling program here. Officials said that it is shown to greatest advantage in medium-sized centres such as Victoria, where individual appointments can be made.

The service also arranges interviews at places of business, for students interested in highly specialized occupations.

The remaining two-thirds of the students to be interviewed will receive counselling at the offices on Wednesday of the next two weeks.

Slain In Lonely Home

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—An autopsy on the body of Matti Lammela, 82, has disclosed the man was bludgeoned to death in his isolated home in Ware Township, near Port Arthur, Ontario Provincial Police said Sunday.

BEARING a name well known in United States politics, Robert Taft Jr., son of the late senator, has won the nomination in Ohio Republican primary for congressman at large. This marks his first bid for federal office.

Waterfront Roundup Nets 31 Union Men

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Thirty-one members of the Seafarers' International Union Ind. were arrested on charges of intimidation Saturday in a police crackdown on the waterfront.

The men were hauled off in vans and were to be arraigned today in this St. Lawrence River community 85 miles downstream from Montreal.

All but two of them were granted $500 bail.

Hall of $2,000 was set for Brodwick Hanery of Vancouver and $1,000 for Gilbert Gauthier of Montreal, described as agents of the union. The police move follows an appeal for government action by L. R. Davidson, president of Trois-Rivieres Grain Elevators.

He said "all authority is being flouted" by the SIU in a dispute between the union and Upper Lakes Shipping Limited.

Telegrams asking for intervention were sent to Prime Minister Starr, Transport Minister Balcer, Premier Jean Lesage and Labor Minister Rene Hamel of Quebec as well as the provincial police.

Four provincial policemen participated in the waterfront raid along with a contingent of 25 municipal police.

The SIU has been feuding with the shipping company since the recently-formed Canadian Maritime Union CLC won bargaining rights for seamen employed by the carrier.

COSMONAUT BAFFLED BY MONEY AND CARS

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)—Soviet cosmonaut Major Gherman Titov and his pretty wife, Tamara, landed at Prestwick on their way home Saturday and gave a few impressions from a 12-day visit to North America.

"Among the strange things was the number of cars," he said. "People will soon have to walk; it will be quicker."

"Wherever you go you have to pay money. You almost have to pay money to breathe the fresh air."

SPRED HOUSE PAINT

Dries in just 20 minutes. Easy to apply. Dries dust-free and bug-free. Brushes (and hands) wash in water. It's the outdoor paint that's indoor easy.

Here's why some paints blister: the ever-present moisture vapour inside your home builds up. It eventually escapes through walls and siding, finally reaching the paint protecting your home. If it's conventional, non-breathing paint, the moisture is trapped, forcing the paint away from the siding, creating blisters.

SPRED HOUSE PAINT, however, "breathes". Applied over unpainted wood or previously painted surfaces which have been properly prepared, Spred House Paint resists blistering and peeling. Spred House Paint and Latex Primer can even be applied over damp surfaces. Both Primer and finish coat of Spred House Paint are formulated to allow moisture to escape harmlessly, without damaging the protective paint. See your Glidden dealer for a complete selection of modern home colors.

Florida Trips Financed From Gambling Wins

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Riggs, who described himself as a $100-a-week potato chip salesman, said today he finished the now defunct Veterans' proceeds of gambling.

Riggs told the Ontario royal commission on crime that he was an associate of Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley, who financed trips to Florida with Club at Cooksville, Ont., and said he has been a bookmaker on his own for the last 10 years or so.

Just before the morning recess, evidence dealing with his bookmaking activities was cut off when the judge's intervention would be "unfair" to himself and other men awaiting trial at Oshawa on charges of conspiracy to run a gaming house.

When the session reconvened, Mr. Justice W. D. Roach closed the hearings to allow Riggs to continue his testimony in camera.

MADE FIVE TRIPS

Riggs, who collapsed briefly during his opening testimony Friday, said today he has made about five trips to Florida since he took up employment with a potato chip maker, described as the Joseph Price firm, in 1950.

He said on one occasion he drove to Florida with a Mrs. Joyce Miller and stayed three or four weeks with expenses running at around $40 a day.

Under examination about his finances in 1958, he said that the cash price of a new Cadillac was about four-fifths of his potato chip salary for the year, but said he had also made some money in stock transactions, which he had reported to the income tax department.

Riggs was indefinite as to his duties with the potato chip firm, saying that they consisted mainly in calling on prospective customers. However, he could not provide the names of any customers he had called on in the last year.

He had a desk in the Price firm's office and said he usually went to the office every day, although he had no specific time for checking in or out.

Invited to Russia

MOSCOW (Reuters) — American astronaut John Glenn and Alan Shepard have been invited to visit Russia, Soviet spaceman Gherman Titov disclosed today.

WARNING against spread of Nazism in Canada was issued Sunday by Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg in addressing a rally at Montreal conducted by the Association of Former Concentration Camp Inmates. He said immigration officials might be "less meticulous about Nazis than about Communists."

'SMOKEY BEAR' KILLS MARINE DURING PRANK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prank involving a papier mache likeness of Smokey the bear, a forest conservation symbol, ended in death for a marine Sunday.

The victim and a fellow marine, kidnapped the five-foot-six, 75-pound figure Friday night from Storybook Land, a children's amusement park near Woodbridge, Va., 25 miles south of here.

They hid it at the Washington marine barracks until Sunday morning, when they tried to perch it atop a flagpole on the front lawn of a home for veterans.

With a final tug on the rope the bear and the 20-foot flagpole fell to the ground, pinning Cpl. Edward Kaltenbach, 23. He died of a brain hemorrhage, apparently caused when a metal spade in the bear's right hand punctured his skull.

Cpl. Timothy Parsons, 21, was felled by the flagpole but was not injured.

When Were Your Rugs Last Cleaned?

Would you wear an expensive dress until it was so grimy and stained that you wouldn't be seen in it? Of course you wouldn't, yet so many people treat their precious carpets and rugs in just this manner. Take an honest look at your own rugs — right now. Grease stains and grime ground in with daily use can destroy the rug fibres and reduce the life of your floor coverings. Your rugs deserve the professional care provided by the CARPETORIUM. Lawyers, Local Politicos Top Liberal Candidate List

Local government and the law have contributed most to the slate of federal election candidates picked for the Liberal party in B.C.

At least five of the Liberal hopefuls are graduates of civic politics; six of them are lawyers.

The Liberals have candidates in all but one riding. Nomination of the 22nd candidate will come tonight in Vancouver East.

Three former members of Parliament are trying a comeback:

Arthur Laing, in Vancouver South, who resigned to lead the provincial Liberal party in 1953; Elmore Philpott, the newspaper columnist who lost Mr. Laing's seat to the Conservatives in 1957 and now is running in Okanagan Boundary; and Jimmy Byrne, a Cominco miner who is trying to regain the Kootenay East seat he lost to the Tories in 1958.

ONLY DOUKHOBOV

Other Liberal candidates include Doukhobor businessman Nick Ogilvie, who's making a good campaign out of this connection in Kootenay West; a pair of printers; assorted businessmen and a couple of engineers.

The six lawyers in the field are Foster Isherwood, Victoria; W. J. Trainor, Burnaby-Richmond; Jarl Whist, Kamloops — a former Norwegian underground fighter in the Second World War; Ron Basford, 29, Vancouver Burrard; Doug Walker, Vancouver Kingsway; and J. R. Nicholson, Vancouver Centre, who also has been president of the Forest Industries Council, organized Polymer, the huge government synthetic rubber producer in the war, and was one of the late C. D. Howe's right-hand men.

The civic politicians who have turned to the federal field include Mr. Laing, Frank Valair, a retired businessman, now an alderman, running in Okanagan-Revelstoke; Bill Moore, a printer by trade, who quit the CCF, now is mayor of Courtenay in Comox-Alberni; another printer, Fred Jackson, former mayor of New Westminster, who's running in that city; and Charlie Graham, diminutive Prince George alderman, with a king-sized campaign manager, colorful Spike Enemark in Cariboo riding.

Two teachers trying to get to Ottawa for the Liberals are John Saywell in Nanaimo and Walter Ferguson in Fraser Valley. Both are high school principals. Mr. Saywell, 64, has been in charge of Lake Cowichan High School for 24 years.

FROM SERVICE

The only Liberal candidate with a formidable service background is David Groos, of Esquimalt-Saanich, who was a captain in the navy, at one time the youngest commanding officer (HMCS Restigouche) of any RCN destroyer.

He retired at the age of 42 last year to enter politics, and very nearly caused a surprise upset in last May's byelection.

One of the two engineers is Jack Davis, who as Dr. John C. Davis has a long record as an economist and engineering expert with the federal government, the Atomic Energy Commission and B.C. Electric, who has tendered his resignation to run in Coast Capilano.

The other is John Watt, of Skeena, who turned from engineering to the contracting business.

The Vancouver Quadra candidate, challenging External Affairs Minister Howard Green, is timberman Grant Deachman.

YOU HAVE A HAND IN THINGS CANADIAN when you own Life Insurance

Surprising? Yes—but true. Like most people, you have probably thought of your life insurance as protection for your family — as a good way to save money regularly — as a valuable collateral if you need a loan for an emergency.

Actually, your life insurance dollars are more than an investment in your personal security and your family's. These dollars are also an investment in Canada. They stimulate growth and progress and help make this country a better place in which to live and work.

At this moment, 9 BILLION DOLLARS of life insurance savings are invested in important Canadian enterprises — through the purchase of bonds and stocks and through mortgages.

These hard-working dollars are helping to finance great projects all over this country such as pipelines, shopping centres, bridges and highways, homes, apartment and office buildings, schools, factories, industrial plants and power developments. These investments create employment opportunities, too.

The income from these investments benefits you directly by reducing the cost of life insurance to you and the 9 million other Canadian policyowners.

While other things have been going up in price, long distance station-to-station calls to points east of Alberta have been coming down.

Police Probe Fatal Shooting Of 8-Year-Old

CHEMAINUS—Police today are still investigating the case of Basil Charles Sylvester, eight-year-old son of Kuper Island Indian parents, who died Sunday from gunshot wounds.

The shooting occurred on the island's Indian reserve.

RCMP said the dead boy and his brother, Leonard, 13, were about to go hunting when the shotgun apparently discharged accidentally while one of the boys was carrying DUNCAN—The eleven-man war canoe "Prince Charles of Nanaimo," skippered by Bill Seward, placed first in both the Vancouver Island and B.C. championship races at Quamichan Lake Sunday.

The Mermaid of Galliano Island, skippered by Johnny Crocker, which was last year's winner, placed second in both races.

Kuper Island School won the "buckskin" canoe race, opened to all boys 16 years and under. Duncan and Saanich placed second and third, respectively.

KYUQUOT—Two persons aboard a fishing boat swam safely to shore when the vessel hit rocks and sank off the West Coast of Vancouver Island Sunday.

The two unidentified crewmen, believed to be from Vancouver, were picked up by a fishing boat and taken to this community about 104 miles northwest of Tofino.

The vessel, identified as the "Hanne No. 2," is owned by the Canadian Fisheries Co. with headquarters in Vancouver.

DUNCAN—A motion calling upon the B.C. government to appoint a Royal Commission on taxation, was unanimously endorsed by the directors of the Cowichan Agricultural Society.

Directors felt the proposed commission should especially look into provincial education costs and their effects on land.

DUNCAN—Because of admitted irregularities in the last ballot, local 1-80 of the IWA will call another vote among its members for the election of officers.

Decision to hold another election of officers was taken at a meeting here Saturday.

It was disclosed that Weldon Jubenville, who retained the presidency in an election held two weeks ago, and Ed Linder, financial secretary, also seeking re-election, both served on the balloting committee.

It was also revealed that more ballots turned up than names of qualified voters.

George Darling of Nanaimo, who has played a major part in organizing libraries throughout Vancouver Island, Saturday received an honorary life membership in the B.C. Library Association at the organization's 51st annual meeting at Victoria College.

He was described at the meeting as a "leader among library trustees."

Mr. Darling, who operates a medical laboratory in Nanaimo, retired as chairman of the Vancouver Island Regional Library Board in January of this year.

He was an active member of the board for more than 20 years and it was largely due to his efforts that Nanaimo got a new $30,000 library building last year.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Gordon John of Victoria, doesn't want to repeat an experience of riding through the treacherous Seymour Narrows with its swirling waters.

His 20-foot boat last week ran out of gas shortly after leaving Sonora Island at dusk. The powerless craft was swept into the turbulent waterway, but survived the ordeal.

The boat was finally taken in tow by a rescue craft piloted by Thor Peterson.

This modified 1924 coupe is the car that a Shell research team drove to a Mileage Marathon record. They used the same gasoline that you could buy at any Shell station.

How a Shell research team got 202.32 miles per gallon— and how you can boost your car's mileage.

Surely, 202.32 miles per gallon must be a world record. Here's how this fantastic mark was set—and how a combination of driving technique, better car care, and today's Super Shell can help you get better mileage.

SOME TIME AGO, a group of Shell scientists had a friendly argument. The gist of it: who could get the most miles from a gallon of gasoline. They decided to find out. And Shell's Mileage Marathon was born.

All contestants had to use the same gasoline anybody could buy at a Shell station. Beyond that, the Marathon had few rules. And ingenuity ran wild.

Here are some of the extreme techniques the winning team used to set their record of 202.32 miles per gallon.

- They removed the engine cooling fan to save power and muffled the radiator to retain heat.
- They used tires that had been worn smooth—then pumped them up to 50 pounds pressure. This cut rolling friction to a bare minimum.
- Light oils were used in both engine and transmission. Wheel bearings were oiled instead of greased—all to reduce friction.
- On the road, they accelerated to 20 miles per hour, then cut the ignition and rolled until their speed dropped to 5 mph. This cycle was repeated throughout the Marathon.

11 tips from Shell to help you boost your car's mileage

These weird devices are certainly not the recommended thing for you or your car. But here are 11 simple, sensible tips from Shell to help you boost your car's mileage.

1. Don't race your engine when standing still. It wastes gasoline—and gets you nowhere. Have your Shell dealer check your engine's idling speed, too. If it's too fast, you're squandering fuel and money.
2. Avoid jackrabbit starts. Any car that is accelerated violently has an unquenchable thirst for gasoline.
3. Drive at moderate speeds. You'll get there safely—and more economically. Most cars use about 25 per cent more gasoline at 65 mph than at 45.
4. Pace yourself in traffic. Look ahead—anticipate. Don't be trapped into wasteful spurts or fast braking.
5. Use Super Shell. One of its nine ingredients, Platformate, is made up of super-energy components that contain 7 per cent more useful energy than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline. On the highway, this extra energy turns up in extra mileage. Another Super Shell ingredient, TCP, works to neutralize engine deposits that cut power—reduce mileage. And a third, mixed pentanes, helps your engine warm-up fast. (Engines are inefficient while cold—use more gasoline).
6. Have your Shell dealer check and re-gap your spark plugs. When plugs are dirty or worn, you can expect your gasoline bills to be higher than they need be.

Worn points or incorrect spark timing can have the same expensive effect. Many Shell dealers are fully equipped to look after your car's timing—to set it right on the dot for top performance—and top mileage.

7. A clogged air cleaner can starve your engine of air—cause it to run on an over-rich gasoline mixture and allow dirt particles to scour cylinders. Have the filter cleaned (or replaced if necessary) by your Shell dealer.
8. Ask your Shell dealer to check your brakes for adjustment. Brake linings rubbing against the drums hold a car back drastically. Gasoline is wasted overcoming the resistance.
9. An engine that is running either too hot or too cold uses more gasoline. Your cooling system should be drained and flushed twice a year by your Shell dealer. This prevents corrosion and clogging of vital water passages. The thermostat should be checked at the same time. Make sure you don't leave the winter thermostat in during summer.

10. Use Shell X-100 Premium* Motor Oil. Until it is thoroughly warmed up, an engine has to work hard against the resistance set up by a thick, cold oil. New Shell X-100 Premium overcomes this difficulty. It is a multi-viscosity oil. It flows freely, will not thicken up in the coldest weather—but also resists thinning out when hot.

X-100 Premium always lubricates efficiently—is never too thick or too thin. It is also the only multi-viscosity oil that cannot create power-robbing metallic ash deposits in your car's combustion chamber.

11. Always keep your tires at the proper pressure. Soft tires soak up power like a blotter soaks up ink.

Motorists who follow these rules, and turn in at the Shell sign, can expect good mileage. Now you know how, why not give it a try. Your pocketbook will notice the difference.

Super Shell has 9 ingredients for power, mileage, quiet running —top performance.

- #1 is Platformate for extra mileage.
- #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power with a purr.
- #3 is TCP*—neutralizes deposits, increases power, mileage and plug life.
- #4 is anti-knock mix—fights all kinds of knock.
- #5 is heavy alkanes—controls high-speed knock.
- #6 is Butane—for quick starts.
- #7 is mixed pentanes—for fast warm-ups.
- #8 is a carburetor defroster.
- #9 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.

Next U.S. Man-in-Orbit
'Sort of No-Good' as Boy

NEW YORK (AP)—Malcolm Scott Carpenter, scheduled to attempt this Saturday to become the second U.S. astronaut to orbit the earth, says that as a youngster he was a "loser" with no sense of responsibility.

Now 37 and a U.S. Navy lieutenant commander, he credits some hard thinking and a near-fatal auto wreck with putting him on the right track.

"I didn't study hard and I had to quit high school football because I couldn't devote myself to learning the plays," Carpenter told a Life magazine interviewer.

"I stole things from stores and I was just drifting through, sort of a no-good," he added.

Carpenter was only three years old when his mother, ill from tuberculosis, left her husband to New York and took him to Boulder, Colo., where her father, Victor Noxon, was editor of the Boulder County Miner and Farmer, a weekly newspaper.

SCOTT CARPENTER

Noxon gave him a horse and praised him as the "best kid rider" he ever saw, the astronaut recalls.

After graduating from high school in 1943, Carpenter enlisted in the navy to become a pilot. He had logged eight hours flying time as a cadet when the war ended and he went home.

"I had a horrible readjustment period," he said. He flunked out of the University of Colorado, was reinstated and flunked out again.

When he was 20, Carpenter was hurrying back to Boulder from a life party when he apparently fell asleep and his car slammed into three road posts before landing in a culvert.

He was unconscious for four days, and remained in the hospital for two weeks. It was during this period, he said, that he met a girl named Rene.

He went back to college, courted and married Rene, his wife, and rejoined the navy.

ELECTION ANALYSIS:
Comeback for Socreds,
No NDP Hope in Alberta

Political reporters with newspapers in the F.P. Publications, of which the Victoria Daily Times is a member, have written a series of articles on aspects of the federal election on June 18.

Today's article concerns the position of the New Democratic and Social Credit parties in Alberta.

By AL ROWE

EDMONTON (Special)—Social Credit—the minor party of major proportions in Alberta—will likely stage a re-appearance in the House of Commons after the June 18 federal election.

Canada's other minor party—the New Democrats—can virtually be written off as far as Alberta is concerned.

The last federal election in 1958 came as a brutal shock to the Social Crediters in this province. Ever since they appeared on Canada's political scene in 1935, the Socreds have returned at least 10 members to the Commons from Alberta.

Thirteen Alberta Socreds sat in the House in 1957, just before the Progressive Conservative landslide. There were only three Tories, and one Liberal.

Sweep for Tories

Then, in 1958 the bottom fell out. The Conservatives swept all 17 Alberta seats.

The purpose of these statistics is to show that something extraordinary happened back in 1958. Only the most awesomely sanguine Tory would have predicted such a result.

In a way, though, the sheer size of the Conservative sweep spells freak. And freaks by definition happen rarely. Hence, in Alberta such a sweep is not likely to occur again and the only people who can lose are the Tories.

Who stands to gain? History says the Social Crediters. The Social Crediters say the Social Crediters—and they are working to prove they are right.

Any smugness in the party must by now have disappeared. When such a well-oiled machine grinds so ignominiously to a halt, drastic repairs are called for.

The Socreds have been making truculent sounds. After a meeting—flamboyantly set in Toronto—it was announced that candidates would be run in all federal ridings, and that in the West the party had only to go through the nomination motions to be ready for the hustings.

Return to Normal

As far as Alberta is concerned, this sort of talk can't be dismissed as so much hot air. It is almost sure that Albertans will return to more normal voting patterns.

This means in all probability a federal revival for the conservative Social Credit party.

The NDP is least likely to benefit from the expected defections from the Tories.

In Alberta the drums of private enterprise beat loud and clear. Social Crediters, in particular, win elections with the help of dire warnings about the evils of socialism and communism.

The CCF has managed in the past to elect a few members to the legislature, but this was largely on the strength of sectionalism or personalities. Sectionalism seems to have lost some of its potency here—there are today no CCF members in the provincial House—and the party is without personalities in Alberta.

Alberta farmers with a protest to make vote mainly Social Credit; the cities and towns are as like as not to vote the same way or for the "old line" parties. An industrial vote, as such, doesn't exist.

Where does the NDP fit in? Most Albertans would answer it doesn't.

Cleopatra's
Beauty Tips
Discovered?

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israeli scientists say they have discovered one of Cleopatra's fabled rejuvenating cosmetics and the site of a pre-Christian charm centre that may have catered to the Queen of Sheba.

Dr. Peter Vajda, Hungarian-born physiologist and biochemist, reports he has rediscovered the process for extracting a skin beautifier from the apple of Sodom which Cleopatra is said to have used to bleach her skin and to tighten her breast muscles.

Dr. Vajda says extracts from the delicate fruit not only make skin firm and blemish free, but can be used in the treatment of acne. In addition to the apple of Sodom, the Cleopatra-Flower, a sulphur spring has proven to contain rejuvenating properties which may have been known to the ancient world, he adds.

The first known reference to the apple of Sodom came from the Jewish-Roman historian Josephus-Flavius, who reported, "the fruits have a color as if they were fit to be eaten, but if you pluck them with your hands, they dissolve into smoke and ashes."

Fiftieth anniversary of folk dancing in South Africa was marked by a special postage stamp issue in 1962.

Philip No Tony But Book Will Sell

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip makes his bow as author, photographer and amateur ornithologist when his book Birds from Britannia goes on sale today.

Already some reviewers have described the book as a sort of challenge to the Royal Family's former professional photographer, Antony Armstrong-Jones, now Lord Snowdon.

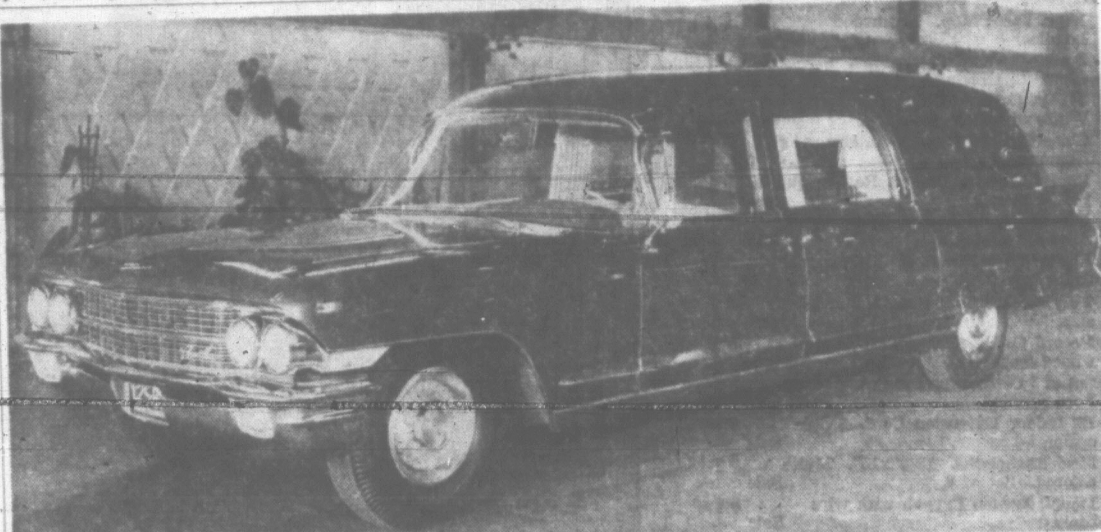

Opinions differed in London newspapers as to whether Philip is as good as Tony. The people predicted Prince Philip will be the top photographer of 1962. But the reviewer in Reynolds News said:

"When it comes to royal snapshots there is not the slightest doubt which of the brothers-in-law is the Tony."

Prince Philip's book is built around pictures he took on two world tours in the royal yacht Britannia in 1956-57 and 1959. The next he wrote is humorous, with occasional sombre passages that refer to the rusting remains of Second World War ships and weapons still found on some isolated Pacific island.

The prince, now in Canada to participate in the Commonwealth industry study conference, has arranged for all royalties from the book to go to various funds in which he is interested.

Morrison Chevrolet-Oldsmobile Ltd., Cadillac dealer in Victoria, announces the arrival of a 1962 Cadillac Landau at McCall Brothers, Funeral Directors. This alutian grey Cadillac Landau, pictured above in the covered concourse adjoining the Floral Funeral Chapel, is the only funeral coach of its kind on the Island, and has many custom-built features. Mr. Robert J. Dymond, an associate of McCall's, has just driven the Landau from the Rock Falls, Illinois, factory, and it is now in service with the Floral Funeral Chapel.

MONTE ROBERTS

I hope you are as thrilled as I am that Campbell River has acquired its very own ever-loving sea monster, name of Klamahotaurus.

Mind you, he's a sort of junior-type sea monster, only about 18 or 20 feet long and, according to the Indians of the Klamah tribe (for whom he is named) just 80 years old.

But even a young, small, sea monster is better than no sea monster at all, and congratulations are in order for the keen-visioned residents of the Duncan Bay area who have confirmed the existence of Klammy, if I may coin an affectionate diminutive.

Naturally, I have been anxious to discuss our new friend Caddy with the senior sea serpent affiant, Cadborosaurus, and on Sunday I found time to slip down to our secret rendezvous point on the shore of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Perching myself on a Strait-side rock, I summoned Caddy with our secret sub-sonar whistle, and, as soon as his radar persuaded him there were no other witnesses, he surfaced, with a great shaking of water from his mane and blowing of ballast from his main tanks.

"Don't tell me; let me guess," Caddy opened the conversation, affixing me with one of his sealed-beam eyes. "You've heard about that new chap Up-Island?"

"Yes, and I'm so enthusiastic," I said. "Another of you wonderful monsters allowing himself to be seen by the general public."

"Took this character long enough," grumbled Caddy. "Shy type, you know. Generation after generation, would only let true native sons see him. Knew true native sons would keep their traps shut as they silently strode through the silent woods."

"But now that he's officially here and will soon be on the Publicity Bureau coming events list, aren't you pleased?" I asked.

"Not very," said Caddy, fretfully flicking a clump of seaweed in my general direction.

"Caddy!" I cried. "Don't tell me you're jealous!"

"Jealous!" snorted Caddy (oh, well, the suit I was wearing was due for the cleaners anyway). "Jealous! Me jealous of an 18-foot baby?"

"No, sir," said Caddy. "There's always room for one more, the more the merrier, and in union there is strength."

"The reason I am not very happy," Caddy went on, "is because the people who described this new chap, I believe you referred to him as Klammy—said he looked like a kangaroo."

"This takes me back," said Caddy, morosely, "to the first time I was sighted, and people said I had a head like a camel and a mane like a horse, with a body like a giant snake."

"I ask you," Caddy went on, "how can a sea monster have any self-respect when he is forever being described as resembling someone else?"

"There will come a day, and it may take a revolution to achieve this—there will come a day when camels are described as having a head like Cadborosaurus, and kangaroos will be known as creatures closely resembling Klamahotaurus."

"Let me know when this happens," Caddy said, swishing about eight gallons of sea water in my general direction as he slid off into the depths, undoubtedly headed for Duncan Bay to explain to the new chap how he had told me off.

Lucky 'Buck' Now Luckier For Who?

Victoria's lucky centennial dollar bill is now worth $200 after a week of fruitless phoning by officials trying to give away $100.

Bill committee chairman Frank Grieve said one person was phoned each day last week and five approached on the street Saturday but no one had a centennial dollar bill which would have gained them $100.

MISSED OUT Today Mr. Grieve phoned Miss L. F. Bartlett, 103 Vancouver, but she did not have a bill and missed out on the $200.

The souvenir bills are currently on sale at centennial headquarters, 1309 Douglas; City Hall, through centennial committee members and the St. Patrick's men's club.

They will also be on sale at the Jaycee Fair next week and at all Safeway stores later this week.

Those phoned last week were: Mrs. Gill, 3568 Quadra; Mrs. L. F. Bartlett, 103 Vancouver; Mrs. M. C. V. Moir, 164 Hibberston Crescent; J. Dick, 1334 Vining; and David Donaldson, 920 Newport.

Those approached Saturday were: Mrs. Gill, 3568 Quadra; Mrs. Joiner, 951 McKenzie Ave.; Mr. Perry, 1227 Pandora; Mrs. Joan Cooper, 2856 Diamond; and Mrs. Stephen Krace, Nanaimo.

Characteristically, he had been mowing a neighbor's lawn and was about to start on his own. He was seen to wince as he started the motor and when members of the family reached him he was unconscious.

The fire department inhaled was called and Mr. Eastick was taken by ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital, where a doctor pronounced him dead.

He is mourned by a large circle of friends, many of whom had known him since childhood. Born in Victoria, he attended Victoria West and Victoria High Schools and later became active in Freemasonry.

He was a past master of United Service Lodge No. 24; AF and AM, and a past principal of Columbia Royal Arch Chapter No. 1. At one time he was an enthusiastic amateur boxer.

His son, Lawrence, now attending Victoria High School, won the silver medal of the Royal Conservatory of Music in 1959 for attaining the highest marks in B.C. in Grade 5 speech arts examination.

DESK MAN At the time of his death, Mr. Eastick was desk man in the composing room and linotype operator with The Times.

He is also survived by his widow, Margaret, a younger son, Eric, who is a student at University School; a brother, T. C. Eastick, and a sister, Mrs. George Boulton, both of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements, arranged by Hayward's, will be held in St. Barnabas Church, Belmont and Begbie, next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. Rev. Canon H. Butler will officiate.

JOSEPH (JOE) EASTICK ... 37 years a printer

Death Comes To Respected City Printer

The Victoria Daily Times went to press today without the services of one of its best-loved printers.

Joseph William Eastick, 37, a member of The Times printing staff since 1925, died suddenly in the garden of his home at 1637 Oak Bay Avenue Saturday evening—a few hours after his day's work was finished.

HOLDING NEIGHBOR Characteristically, he had been mowing a neighbor's lawn and was about to start on his own. He was seen to wince as he started the motor and when members of the family reached him he was unconscious.

The fire department inhaled was called and Mr. Eastick was taken by ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital, where a doctor pronounced him dead.

Two-Car Crash Kills Three Near Nanaimo

Head-On Collision Near Top of Hill

Three men were killed Saturday night in a two-car head-on collision about five miles south of Nanaimo on the Trans-Canada Highway.

They were the only occupants.

Dead are Alexander Gillespie of Nanaimo, David Allen of Cumberland, and Ronald Lewis Chafer of Union Bay, near Courtenay.

Gillespie, 40, was a boatman, and lived at 204 Kennedy.

Chafer, about 22, was driving south in his 1955 Dodge with Allen, described as "a young fellow about the same age," when the accident occurred.

Both Chafer's car and the 1962 Chevy II driven by Gillespie were "wiped out back to the second door," according to a witness.

INSTANT DEATH

One of the victims died instantly, a second about 30 minutes later, and the third about an hour after that.

The crash occurred at the top of a long hill, and drove both cars off the road, and almost into a deep ditch.

Police said one of the cars pulled out to pass another, and met the oncoming car.

Both vehicles apparently tried to pull off the highway to avoid collision, but struck head on.

Nanaimo RCMP said that the bodies will be viewed tonight, and a date for the inquest set.

'U' CHIEF INVOLVED IN PLOT?

University of B.C.'s new president, Dr. John B. MacDonald, today was accused of being an undercover agent for fluoridationists.

The anti-fluoridation B.C. Pure Water Association darkly hinted at a plot to introduce the health measure by government decree.

In a circular letter, received by City Hall, the association spokesman, L. Greenall of Cloverdale, pointed out Dr. MacDonald, who came from Harvard University, was a dentist by profession.

"It is the opinion of our contacts in Ontario that the main reason he has been sent here is to break the 'fluoridation' impasse peculiar to B.C.," as Chief Justice Hall described it.

The chief justice currently is chairman of a royal commission on health.

Columbia Details Nearly Complete

Premier Bennett said today financial details of the Columbia River power project are now "practically complete" after B.C.-Ottawa negotiations.

He said that a tender call for initial clearing at the first Columbia damsite is simply to "save time" and did not depend on any agreements.

He said he had spoken to federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming on the telephone last week before the tender announcement and he offered to see Mr. Fleming in Victoria next week when he is here for a federal election campaign meeting.

"There's no disagreement," said the premier.

BETTER RELATIONS

He said he was pleased that there are now "better relations between the federal government and ourselves."

"Financial details are now practically complete and are recognized."

Mr. Bennett said that "no politics" are involved in the negotiations.

In Ottawa today, Mr. Fleming said no agreement has been made "but we are working toward an agreement and are hopeful one can be reached."

NO ELECTION DELAY

Said Mr. Bennett here: "Just because there's an election going on doesn't mean a delay."

"Once the election is over any further discussions can take place with the national government and the Americans."

2 City Drivers Slightly Injured In Car Mishaps

Two people were treated for minor injuries following two separate accidents in the city Saturday night.

At 10:57 p.m. a car driven north on Quadra by William Harrison, 2538 Quadra, collided with the rear of the car stopped ahead of him and driven by Mrs. Helen Mallett, 1150 Finlayson.

Mrs. Mallett's car was pushed into another car in front.

She was taken to St. Joseph's hospital by her husband and treated for slight neck injuries.

Six hours later a car driven north on Douglas by Reginald Lewis, 3464 Calumet, slammed into a four-face curb-side clock, near the intersection with Spruce.

Mr. Lewis suffered nose and chest injuries. His car was severely damaged.

More Stations Needed for Polling

Polling stations are still needed for the June 18 federal election in Victoria.

Returning officer Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said today that 52 of the stations are needed. A total of 212 have been filled.

Mr. St. Jorre asked everyone wishing to volunteer to call EV 6-4351-2 or 3.

Hockey Backers To Meet Tuesday With Arena Board

A Victoria group trying to bring a professional hockey club back to the city will meet with the arena commission Tuesday for preliminary discussions.

Spokesman for the hockey group said it is hoped a deal can be arrived at for use of the rink before a franchise bid is made at the WHL annual meeting May 25. The Victoria group will not know if they have any players from the Toronto Maple Leafs until June 12.

Centennial Fair Opens Six-Day Run

The Victoria Centennial Exhibition opened its doors at 2 p.m. today but will not be officially opened until 9:55 tonight.

At that time, Dr. Phyllis Ross, Chancellor of the University of British Columbia, will speak a few words from the main stage of the Memorial Arena and formally unveil the 1962 fair.

All proceeds of the six-day exhibition have been pledged to Victoria College for construction of a radio isotope laboratory.

Thirty Jaycees and an equal number of Jaycettes have taken the week off their normal duties to pilot the week's events.

During the week stage shows will be three times daily and at 7:30 p.m., each evening the 10 contestants for the Miss Victoria crown will parade in the Arena.

Agricultural exhibits and judging will last throughout the fair. Business booth leases are 28 per cent higher than the previous exhibition record.

FIRST TWO Miss Victoria contestants to display their talents before the public on stage at Jaycees Fair tonight will be Della Irwin, 18 (left), and Sharon Page, 18. Della, a student at Victoria College, will present a series of mixed dances and Sharon, who likes to knit and sew, will model and comment on a dress which she made. Each night of the fair two of the 10 princesses will exhibit their particular skill. On Saturday evening Miss Victoria will be chosen from the 10, and be crowned by last year's winner, Nina Holden, Miss Canada 1962.

'Easy Steal' Of $1,000 Baffling

Police today were somewhat baffled by the ease with which more than $1,000 was stolen from the safe of a finance company's office during the weekend.

The theft was discovered this morning when employees of Canadian Acceptance Corp., 1051 Fort Street, arrived for work.

The office is situated on the second floor of the Medical Clinic Building. Employees found the main door to the building open, doors leading into the office open and the safe door open.

There were no signs of a forced entry, and the safe wasn't damaged, police said. It is not yet known whether the thief or thieves used a set of keys or whether he was "invited" in via unlocked doors.

"As far as we know all the doors were locked after we closed for the weekend Saturday morning," said manager D. M. Wallace. "However, we can not rule out the possibility that some doors—including the safe door—may have been left open."

The company lost $1,056.70 in cash.

"They left some cheques behind in the safe," Mr. Wallace said.

Present Problems Solved With These Suggestions

By PENNY SAVER

Are wedding bells breaking up that old gang of yours? As summer progresses you may find yourself invited to many bridal showers and weddings. What to do about gifts? Penny has found some fairly inexpensive gift suggestions that you might like to keep in mind during the next four months while the marriage season is at its height.

Very distinctive are the sets of six steak knives that caught my eye in one store. Handles are made to represent bone handles, in dappled patterns of dark grey, grey and white, with one of the colors predominating in each set.

Also styled with bone-like handles are a set of tongs and bottle opener, a butter dish and a set of six ordinary knives. Unusual item is a long oval silver candy dish, with bone-style handle.

All sets are now selling at a manufacturer's special price of $3.95 each. Regular price of these Canadian-made products is $4.95 a set.

Same store has lovely Venetian glass bowls and vases which have darkly glowing brown bottom with amber upper half. Designs on glass are done in gold. Large fruit bowl sells for $3.95. Slender vases with sweeping lines that will delight the heart of any new bride come in tall sizes at $3.25 and in shorter versions at $2.50.

Different wedding present would be the jug and glass set which includes large jug and six glasses for $10.95. For a slimmer purse there are dainty dishes at $1.25.

Pottery from West Germany features flashes of brilliant colors of yellow, aqua and orange on dark brown background. Small vases in this pottery sell at 75 cents while larger vases in varied shapes range from $4.75 to a mammoth one at $9.95.

One very intriguing looking dish simply cannot be described, but is only $4.75 and could serve a number of purposes—from holding fruit to being a banana-split dish. Not a very helpful description I know, but one designed to excite your interest!

Solve your present problems by phoning Penny at EV 2-3131 to ask where these items may be found.

New Weapons, Methods Help Fight Mental Disease

The great progress which has been made recently in the control and cure of mental illness is one of the most exciting and rewarding things which is happening on the modern scene.

Mental illness is an illness just as tuberculosis and cancer are. So much has been learned and there are so many new weapons with which to fight this malady! There are the tranquillizing and anti-depressant drugs, shock therapy, individual psychotherapy and group therapy.

In the past many dread diseases have been conquered such as typhoid fever, smallpox and diphtheria. Now polio and tuberculosis are about whipped and before long science no doubt will vanquish heart disease and cancer. These successes have been possible because medical research has been backed by the public.

Mental illness is now on the list of enemies to be understood and controlled.

One of the most important parts in the treatment of mental illness is the rehabilitation or after-care following discharge from the hospital. Mental Health Associations help find the patient a job if he needs it, or a place to live if he has no family or if it is best for him to live away from the family, and helps him get essential medication. A warm welcome from family and friends and those who understand is of the greatest value.

More after-care medical clinics are needed for those discharged from mental hospitals. More ex-patient clubs and "half-way houses" are essential to aid the individual in adjusting to the society to which he has returned.

Research has shown that the more adequate the rehabilitative services the community is able to provide, the fewer readmissions there will be.

If you think you're worrying too much, you may benefit from my leaflet, "Worry," which tells you how to break this habit. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 64 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Joset Walker

Shape in motion, the season's newest look of all, is the exciting theme of this versatile season-spanning costume. Designer Joset Walker buttons a high-riding young jacket over a swinging, sleeveless dress, its bodice carving more zip to the fit, its skirt spinning more gores, to the flare—ten to be exact! On its own after dark, the dress glides smoothly through the dinner and dancing hours. DEAR ABBY

Pooled Opinions!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You sure started something in this office when you ran that letter from a reader who asked what you thought about an executive who cluttered his office desk with pictures of his family. Although you said it was perfectly okay, the day after your article appeared my boss got such a ribbing he took his pictures home.

GIRL FRIDAY.

DEAR ABBY: You goofed! In our opinion (and we took a pool in an office of 12 girls and two men) an office desk is no place for pictures of the wife and kiddies. When a man is at work, he should carry "pictures" of his family in his mind. If he has to have their smiling faces trained on him all day long to remember what they look like, heaven help him! And then, too, THE 4TH FLOOR GANG.

DEAR ABBY: I am a nurse. The doctor for whom I work told me that he kept plenty of pictures of his wife and children on his desk as a constant reminder to some of his patients that he is a family man. He is an OB and lots of women get some strange ideas about their doctors.

DOCTOR'S NURSE.

DEAR ABBY: An executive's life should be divided into two distinct parts—his home and his office. A man should not have "photographs" of his "family" in his place of business. Neither should he have pictures of his office employees in his home.

ALL BUSINESS (office manager).

DEAR ABBY: You say it is all right for an executive to have pictures of his wife and family on exhibition at his office. I'll bet you don't have pictures of your husband and children all over your office.

"SNOOPY."

DEAR "SNOOPY": I'll bet I have!

DEAR ABBY: In regard to pictures on desks: Your philosophy is good, but I disagree. My husband adores his family, but he will not put our pictures on his desk. A good executive's wife should accept her husband's judgment pertaining to his work. After all, anyone who visits his desk daily surely knows whether he is proud of his family.

AN EXECUTIVE'S WIFE.

DEAR ABBY: For my part, pictures of the loved ones belong in a man's wallet. And should stay there until he is asked to show them.

"CYNIC."

DEAR ABBY: I just love to see a man's family proudly displayed in pictorial form in his place of business. And the more the merrier. They say one picture is worth 10,000 words.

FOR PICTURES.

PPCLI Draws Highest Praise For Ceremonial

Officers and men of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry won high praise Saturday for their enactment of the intricate Trooping the Color ceremony at Work Point Barracks.

"Nobody could help but be moved by your performance," said Maj. Gen. J. M. Rockingham, officer commanding Western Command, who took the salute as the color party marched past the reviewing stand.

"The steadiness and precision of your movements left little to be desired."

More than 550 officers and men crossed and re-crossed the parade square in a ceremonial sequence of movements fraught with historical significance.

OLD SOLDIERS WATCH

Old soldiers from the First World War, the Second World War and the Korean War watched from the sidelines as the color party slow-marched along the ranks in a movement originally designed to ensure that soldiers recognized the color in battle.

At the outset, Lt. Col. R. F. Bruce, commanding officer, advanced to the reviewing stand and asked permission to troop the color.

"Carry on, please," said Maj. Gen. Rockingham.

Red-coated regimental bandmen then played "The British Grenadiers" as the escort for the color slow-marched to the spot where Regimental Sergeant-Major A. J. Rudd handed over the color.

As the color party marched past to the reviewing stand, the band played three First War tunes "Has Anyone Seen the Colonel?" "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" and "Mademoiselle from Armentieres."

Maj. Gen. Rockingham said afterwards: "I don't think there is any doubt in anyone's mind that the effect of our partnership in NATO, and the fact we are ready to follow through and carry out any task given to us has had a deterring effect."

"A country which is prepared to make a less attractive target than one which is not prepared."

HUMBER'S

BORGE GIVEN WARM WELCOME

Victoria's Vikings greeted Victor Borge like a cosmonaut returning to earth Sunday.

"I feel, so help me, like John Glenn," said the Danish comedian as he stepped off his aircraft, literally into the arms of more than 100 former countrymen, Swedes and Norwegians at Patricia Bay Airport.

"Well, don't go back into orbit yet," Borge was entreated by Einar Norgaard, local president of the Danish-Canadian Association.

The reception set the tone for the rest of the evening as Borge was hosted at a banquet-soiree at Carlton Club, courtesy the Danish-Canadian Association.

Didn't Want to Go Home

He had such a good time that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Barraclough, Borge's official hosts, had difficulty tearing him away to rest up for tonight's Victoria Symphony performance at Esquimalt Sports Arena.

At the airport symphony president Barraclough had the unusual distinction of introducing Victor Borge the pianist to Victor Borge the schoolboy. 13-year-old local namesake who has no intention of ever playing the piano.

At Carlton Club, Borge "look over" a piano and held some 165 Scandinavians "quiet as mice" for half an hour, Mr. Norgaard said.

Joined the Dancing Crowd

He chatted with nearly everyone and signed "about a million autographs," then joined in when the crowd started dancing.

Professional dancers Hal and Jean Mather, who were guests at the party, entered into the spirit of the occasion with a "command performance" of Latin numbers.

The guest of honor spoke of his native land and his adopted country, the United States; telling the Viking audience there is nothing wrong with leaving one's homeland.

"He said it was like dividing your love between mother and father, and that's exactly the way most of us feel," Mr. Norgaard said.

Tickets for the program at 8.30 are available at Eaton's and at the arena after 5.30.

Junior Foresters Mark Conservation Week

This week—May 12 to 19—is Junior Forest Warden Forest Conservation Week, a week to honor the work of a national body, first established in B.C., devoted to forest conservation.

Organized in 1930 in this province to educate the public in conservation of forest resources, and particularly in forest fire prevention, the junior forest wardens were set up last year on a national basis. Australia, New Zealand and the United States have copied the group's methods as well.

There are 30 groups in B.C. comprising some 50,000 schoolboys from 10 to 16 years old. Five of these groups are on the Island, and two in Victoria.

Local wardens are at present engaged in clearing Goldstream, McDonald, John Dean and Bamberton parks in preparation for the summer picnic season.

Other activities throughout the year include field trips, tree planting, first aid, map work, signals, fire fighting and tree identification. The group has a booth at the Victoria Jaycee Exhibition.

Restored Rodd Hill Opens July 9

Tentative date for the opening of historic Fort Rodd Hill on the far side of Esquimalt Harbor has been set for July 9, George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich, said Saturday.

A tentative opening date was set following a visit Saturday from J. D. Herbert, historic sites division of the department of northern affairs, to finalize plans for restoring and developing the historic fort and its grounds.

Mr. Chatterton said initial work on the site will start almost immediately. This will include construction of parking facilities and the removal of fences in and around the 44-acre property.

Fisgard Light, one of the oldest lighthouses on the Pacific coast, adjoining the Fort Rodd Hill site, will be developed at the same time, he said.

Authority Of Court Queried

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. William Allan Platt, 48, was charged today before a court martial with an act to the prejudice of good order and discipline arising from military smuggling operations last year in Indochina.

The charge was the same as that faced earlier by four other army men although Maj. Platt is the first officer named. Sentences for the other four ranged from outright dismissal to a severe reprimand—in effect a mere notation on the service record.

Until Friday, the major's civilian counsel told the court martial today, he had faced a second charge of scandalous misconduct.

Maj. Platt, from Cobourg and Picton, Ont., is alleged to have organized and participated in illegal gold movements. His counsel, R. J. Laishley, immediately moved on four grounds for dismissal of the charge.

He said that the court lacked jurisdiction because after a full investigation the army was on the verge of letting the major take his discharge and then changed its mind.

Secondly, the necessary preliminaries had been bypassed, in spirit at least, and that the court martial therefore lacked jurisdiction. There had been no detailed investigation by the commanding officer.

Thirdly, the charges framed did not disclose any service offence.

Fourthly, contrary to the bill of rights, the major had been denied legal counsel when confronted with the charges.

Group Capt. J. H. Hollies, the Judge-Advocate, said he was not at all satisfied that points one, three and four merit further discussion but evidence could be called on all four if the major's counsel desired.

The group captain said that there is a flat and absolute prohibition against providing legal aid on service charges before a decision to hold a trial. Nothing prevented the major from obtaining civilian legal counsel for the trial, he said.

Island Students Forestry Essay Prize Winners

Six Vancouver Island students have been awarded prizes from the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. for essays submitted to the annual forestry contest.

Karl Ingebrigtsen, Chemainus Junior-Senior High School, won first prize of $100 in the Junior Section. Second prize of $50 went to Kathleen Anne Woolley, Colquitz Junior High School, and third prize of $25 to Roberta Jean Crosby, Courtenay High School.

Senior section winners were: 1. Julia Ann Oxendale, Esquimalt Senior High School; 2. Ellis Pryce-Jones, Oak Bay Senior High School; 3. Roberta Jean Crosby, Courtenay High School.

Topic of the essay was "Why We Use Wood Products—Their Present and Future Importance." Winners of the four B.C. regional divisions were announced today by E. J. Palmer, president of the association.

Service Station Site At College Opposed

Efforts to "dezone" the corner of Cedar Hill Cross Road and Henderson Road from service station use are being made by a city lawyer because the property is opposite the entrance to the university campus.

He is appealing to Oak Bay council for reconsideration of the zoning of property on the southeast corner of the intersection, which was decided in September, 1960.

Donald G. Cameron said the whole character of the area had changed since then, with "better" homes along Henderson and prospect of a parklike university campus.

Owner of the property has advertised for bids by oil companies interested in buying the land.

It is stipulated that a service station on the lot must have conforming architecture and a stone face, and 20-foot-wide screen of trees and shrubs on both Cedar Hill Cross Road and Henderson.

TORONTO—Now it's the "Diefendollar."

That label was tacked onto the Canadian government's devalued 92¢ cent dollar here at a political rally over the weekend by Mitchell Sharp, the Liberal candidate in Toronto's Eglinton riding.

In a hard hitting speech aimed at Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Donald Fleming Mr. Sharp told his audience of 200 that Canada's prestige is at a low ebb. This country has "lost much of our influence in the councils of the nations."

ELECTRIC TOOTHBRUSHES 'HAZARDOUS'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government announced Sunday it has seized 224 Vibra Dent electric toothbrushes on the ground their labelling does not warn of potential shock hazard.

The Food and Drug Administration said the motor and cord units of the devices are not sealed and are capable of transmitting severe or fatal shock to the user after immersion in water.

The agency said in a statement that some 50,000 Vibra Dent electric toothbrushes and gum massagers, distributed since last February by the Chase Manufacturing Company of New York, are in commercial channels.

It said steps are being taken to remove them from the market.

The agency warned particularly that the devices should be kept out of the hands of children who might dip or drop them into the washbowl.

Experts Divide On Solutions To Anxiety

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—Experts in the study of human behavior appear to be divided on how to reduce anxiety in the era of nuclear weapons.

One recurring opinion in a panel discussion at the American Psychiatric Association annual meeting last week was that a common reaction to the threat of nuclear war is unconscious denial that a threat exists.

Psychiatry defines denial as an automatic defence process whereby the human mind disowns the intolerable thought to allay anxiety.

The specialists discussing civilian tensions in the atomic age included James S. Tyhurst, chairman of the psychiatry department at University of British Columbia; New York City psychoanalyst Joost A. M. Meerloo; Otto Klineberg, professor of social psychology at Columbia University in New York City; and Edward Margets, associate professor of psychiatry at UBC.

While the New York speakers proposed different methods whereby social science could attack the threat of war, Dr. Tyhurst said man must learn to live with anxiety and Dr. Margets said the problem of new nations are more important than the atomic threat.

HAS 'ONLY ANSWERS'
Dr. Tyhurst described as "naive" suggestions that education and plans for changing social institutions would cure tensions.

The only answer, he said, is to "live with uncertainty and anxiety . . . to understand life is a tragedy, but that action is not impossible."

Dr. Tyhurst, who has studied the mental and social aspects of disaster for 10 years, said denial and apathy are the only healthy defences against conflicting information and opinions about war and peace and fallout shelters.

Tensions created by the threat of war are made worse by a lack of stability in present-day life because of acceleration in the rate of change, he said.

Uncertainty about old values creates inner anxiety and intensifies anxiety caused by the external threat of war. People no longer are serious about the future and are exhorted on all sides "to live and consume in the here and now."

In addition to denial and apathy, tension and uncertainty create "reactive certainties—dogmas accompanied by hate and projected hostility."

DEAL WITH UNCERTAINTY
This reaction away from uncertainty into dogma finds expression in new groups on the far right politically. Such people "deal with uncertainty through a closed system of beliefs," Dr. Tyhurst said.

Dr. Meerloo, said social scientists should teach people how to behave in relation to hostility in their individual environments so they can learn how to react to global hostility.

Psychiatrists and psychologists also should study the motivation of society's decision-makers and be ready to work with them.

They should examine both the largely hidden mental drives that bring war and the motives of the peace, Dr. Meerloo said. "If we make individuals more stable, the world will be more stable," he added.

Dr. Klineberg said the greatest challenge to the social scientists is to contribute "a new way of thinking." Learning to "see the world as others see it" is essential, he added.

He gave examples of how social science already is being applied to the threat of war in studies on how groups base judgments of others on national stereotypes and how negotiators are motivated.

An experiment has shown that conflicts are better resolved after an exercise in which each side is required to present the other's arguments to the satisfaction of the opponent.

Dr. Klineberg added that at this stage he could not visualize U.S. and Soviet disarmament negotiators trying the exercise at Geneva.

Dr. Margets, who has worked in Kenya and Nigeria, said the impact of the technical atomic age on emerging nations "in the long run will prove to be more important than the atom bomb and the U.S. versus Russia."

He also suggested that the world's "population explosion" is an urgent problem.

Laos No Loss Says General

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Maj. Gen. John Heintges, former chief of the U.S. military mission in Laos, says "lose" that country to the Communists because it never was an effective ally.

"I would go one step further and say I don't believe there ever was a Laos as a nation," he told a Senate armed services subcommittee last week, citing the independence of many of the 57 Laotian tribes, their different languages and the country's hazy borders.

POSTPONING his visit to the United States because of the representatives rejection of a long-standing Philippine war damage bill, Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal said "I deeply regret the postponement, but the feeling of resentment among my people negates an atmosphere of goodwill."

VAN ALLEN:

No Need For Man In Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. James A. Van Allen has downgraded present U.S. man-in-space projects, contending that "for the same investment of effort we learn much more without the man."

Van Allen, discoverer of the earth-encircling belt of radiation named for him, ventured the opinion in testimony before the House of Representatives appropriations committee. His testimony was made public today.

"A monkey made the first orbital trip and he made out all right," Van Allen told the committee.

He said he doesn't view astronaut John Glenn's triple earth orbit of Feb. 20 "as a reason to believe that a man is important to the operation of present day spacecraft."

Van Allen, head of the department of astronomy and physics at State University of Iowa, said that when moon landings are attempted within five or 10 years, man will be superior and more desirable to instruments. But until then, he said, an astronaut "cannot contribute to the conduct of scientific experiments to any degree remotely comparable to the effort required to maintain him" in a spacecraft.

The scientist was testifying in behalf of an appropriation to the National Science Foundation.

Gunfight Erupts In Station

NEW YORK (AP)—A railroad policeman and three bandits exchanged shots in crowded Grand Central terminal Sunday night during a chase of hundreds of yards through the station.

The policeman, stabbed with an ice pick while grappling with the trio, lost them when they reached switching tracks on the station's lower level.

Policeman Lawrence Whalen came upon the three trying to jimmy the locks on a display case inside the terminal. As Whalen grappled with the men, one stabbed him in the hip and another clubbed him over the right eye.

While police held back several thousand people in the terminal, Whalen and other officers pursued the bandits through the station, to the lower level and out into the switching tracks.

Whalen fired five shots at the three and one shot was fired at him. He later said he believed one of the men might have been wounded.

U.S. Missile Explodes

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An Atlas missile exploded in a test stand at Sycamore Canyon about 15 miles northeast of downtown San Diego today.

No one was reported injured. The missile was tethered for test firing of its rocket engines and did not leave the ground. The 90-foot test stand was reduced to rubble and a number of nearby fuel storage tanks were destroyed.

The cause of the mishap was not reported.

2 KILLED, 6 INJURED IN TUNNEL COLLAPSE

MADRAS, Ore. (AP)—Collapsing steel construction forms carried two workers to their death and hurt six others early Sunday in a tunnel at Round Butte Dam.

The eight workers were carried about 100 feet down the steeply-inclined spillway tunnel of the dam being built across the Deschutes River, 170 miles southeast of Portland.

The accident happened in the 450-foot long spillway tunnel, about halfway up the 1,000-foot canyon wall.

CUBAN NAVY PATROL SHOT UP BY PIRATES

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A tuck-off Santa Cruz del Norte, Cuban Navy patrol boat was shot up by a "pirate ship" Sunday and three crew members were killed, a Havana telecast said.

CMQ, the government television station, said also five of the boat's men were wounded in the hit-and-run attack toward Havana.

National Dockworkers' Pact Flaunts British Wage Policy

LONDON (CP)—A settlement that headed off a national dock strike 25 hours before the Sunday midnight deadline is a mixed blessing for the government.

Although a strike would have been a disastrous blow to Britain's export drive, the award of an increase of close to four per cent to the 70,000 dockers is a severe jolt to the attempts of Chancellor Selwyn Lloyd to keep increases within 2½ per cent.

The decision the government had to make was whether or not a dock strike would do more damage to the economy than would the flaunting of its pay policy.

GHANA CHANGES MIND, PLANS POLYGAMY BAN

ACCRA (AP) — The Ghana government plans to stamp out polygamy in the West African state. A bill published Friday reversed the findings of a white paper issued 12 months ago which said a man could marry as many women as he wished but "can only register one wife."

Red Men View White Ballots as Smallpox Blankets

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — The white man is reeling before an onslaught by red men opposed to members of their race voting in the June 18 federal election. Centres of the modern-day Indian war are the Caughnawaga Indian reservation near Montreal and the St. Regis reservations, one on Cornwall Island, near Cornwall, Ont., and another a few miles away in Quebec.

The Mohawks of Caughnawaga and their brothers of the Six Nations on the St. Regis reservations have passed resolutions that they want no part of their new right to vote in federal elections.

The white man has taken them at their word, but has made preparations off the reservations for them to vote just in case they change their minds by June 18.

As a result of the resolutions passed by the Indians, no polling booths will be located on the reservations and no election officers will be stationed on them. There also was no enumeration of voters on the reservations.

However, polling booths will be located adjacent to the reservations. This will enable the few white people on the reservations to cast a vote and any Indians who change their minds.

DIRECTOR MYSTIFIED

Col. H. M. Jones, federal director of Indian affairs, says he is mystified over why the Indians object to exercising their franchise to vote in federal elections. This right was provided in legislation passed by Parliament in 1960.

Col. Jones said there seems to be an impression among some Indians that they will lose some of their rights if they vote. However, he said that Citizenship Minister Fairclough told Parliament April 11 that no rights of Indians would be affected.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"One thing I have not gone, baby, is Hollywood!" Laurence Harvey exclaimed at me across our lifted glasses one recent afternoon in 21.

"I'm sick of all Hollywood's brilliant adjectives about Hollywood. But there is one thing I've gone."

"I've gone New York!"

Well, I'll tell you, baby. One reason was that Plaza cham-bermaid who kept seeing him in such a variety of disguises. It happened while he was filming part of "The Manchurian Candidate" here with Frank Sinatra, who pulled him out of ley Central Park Lake.

HIS OWN CLAN

"By the way, first, are you a member of the Clan?" I asked him.

"I got my own clan," he smiled sophisticatedly.

"The morning of the day when I was to go into the lake, I wasn't shaved," he remembered.

"I was supposed to be in a wrinkled suit. The English material of my suit was non-wrinkleable."

"Johnny Frankenstein, our director, said, 'I got news for you, baby. I'm the greatest suit-wrinkler in the business.'"

"He had a guy stand on the suit and do other things to it to make it a complete disgrace."

Harvey was leaving with his script under the wrinkles when he met the chambermaid and gave her a hearty "Good morning."

HARVEY man of many parts

"I could just hear her saying, 'My God, they're letting any kind of bum in this hotel!'"

BRANDY ON TOP

Not very long afterward, his teeth still chattering from the icy plunge, Harvey returned to the hotel, wearing a terrycloth robe, long underwear, fur-lined boots, "and on top of this a little brandy."

It seemed a big joke to his wardrobe man, "Ronnie Rags," who called out: "The champ! He knocked him out in the 13th round."

EARL'S PEARLS: Chivalry nowadays consists of opening a door and holding it for a woman—who'll rush in and take the job you're after.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Science is now tackling the most vexing problem facing astronauts wearing those bubble helmets—what to do about an itchy nose.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: People who are careless about crossing streets may be called "jaywalkers"—or merely "the deceased."

Those movie love scenes are getting so daring, reports Tony Bennett, that when he goes to a drive-in theatre he hardly ever looks into the next car any more. That's sad, brother.

FAMILY'S 2ND PRIZE

'Ask Andy' Winner Avid Science Fan

Friendly rivalry in the family and an avid interest in the science questions and answers in The Times led John Campbell, 3157 Happy Valley Road, to a 20-volume encyclopedia prize recently.

John's question, "What are isobars?" wins today's main prize of a World Book Encyclopedia from the "Ask Andy" column in today's newspaper.

Less than a year ago, his sister Lynnda won a globe of the world for a question about penquins, and 11-year-old John's interest in the popular science feature dates from the time that he and his sister began using it as a basis of household discussion.

"The encyclopedia should be a help in my studies," says John, who is in Grade V at Happy Valley School.

He and his family have lived in Happy Valley for 11 years. Assisting in the Times presentation was the local representative of World Book, Mrs. Irene White.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to John Campbell, age 11, Victoria, B.C., for his question:

What are isobars?

A weather expert can look at a picture of isobars and tell you whether you should take a raincoat or a beach umbrella on tomorrow's picnic. For of all the items on a weather map, the isobars have the most information to give. They look very complicated, but it is not hard to understand them—and when you can read the isobars on a weather map, you too can be a weather prophet.

Isobars tell the weight or pressure of the air over a wide area. This is vital information, because air pressure has a lot to do with the changing weather. A dense, heavy mass of air tends to flow outward into regions of lighter air. A mass of light air tends to form a sort of pocket in the atmosphere and the surrounding, denser air blows in to fill it.

Our weather passes over the land in a series of calm and stormy air masses. A high pressure area produces gentle breezes flowing out from a central mass of heavy air. A low pressure area tends to produce stormy winds blowing in towards a pocket of lighter, low pressure air. The spinning earth twists these winds and makes them blow in spirals. Winds of a high pressure area spiral clockwise and winds of a low pressure area spiral counterclockwise.

These patterns of highs and lows govern much of our weather—and isobars give a picture of the air pressure which causes them. On a map, the isobars look like the wavy outlines of a series of islands, one inside another. The centre of the series is the region of high or low pressure which influences the weather over a wide area.

Stations Report Air Pressure

Each isobar is put together from information coming in from widely scattered weather stations. Each station reports air pressure along with other standard weather items. The air pressure is given in units called millibars and one by one the farflung reports are recorded on a big weather map. Then a line is drawn through all of the places reporting air pressure of, say, 1,020 millibars. This line is an isobar.

Another isobar is then drawn through all the points with air pressure of, say, 1,010 millibars. This isobar is a line of lower air pressure. If it is inside the first isobar, then the weather expert suspects he is dealing with a low pressure system, with its promises of blustery storms. If the second isobar is outside the first, then the approaching weather pattern may be a high pressure air mass with promises of fair weather.

Air pressure, of course, is recorded on a barometer. This instrument gives the weight of the column of air directly above it. An everyday barometer gives the air pressure in a scale of inches and standard air pressure is 29.92 inches. The barometer of a weather expert is usually marked in millibars to give a more exact measure. On this barometer, standard air pressure is 1013.2 millibars.

The session was a prelude to the prince's Second Commonwealth Study Conference, opening later today at the University of Montreal.

In a precise and friendly manner, the prince replied without hesitation to a wide variety of questions—some of them on topics such as the European Common Market, Quebec separatism and criticism of the Royal family—and tried to put them all in the perspective of the study conference.

Object of the conference, he said, is to make people worry about the industrial juggernaut. "Its importance will be in the effect it has on the people who participate," he said.

The worst aspects of industrial change weigh upon management as well as labor, he said. "Both sides get ulcers."

Then, glancing at Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, who was sitting at his right, Prince Philip said with a broad smile:

"Perhaps when you get to be a labor leader, you get the worst variety of ulcer."

One reporter, apologizing in advance for asking a question with political implications, wondered whether Philip would comment on the possible implications for the Commonwealth of the European Common Market.

Philip held up a hand and said dryly he wasn't going to answer because he had already been accused by the London Daily Express, a newspaper owned by Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, of taking sides on the issue.

Then he added that the market raises an enormous number of very important issues but it would be better to have them discussed in the privacy of the conference sessions.

Asked why the conference sessions are to be closed to the press, the Prince replied that the aim of the conference is to give the members a new experience that could help shape their thinking. It was not intended to be a forum at which either management or labor sought to win a point.

If the sessions were open, Philip said, no group could discuss the things that mattered. "They'd be pilloried if they said the things they should say."

Philip defended newspaper's right to criticize the Royal Family, but suggested they steer clear "from gossip that's not always true."

Asked whether he would like to answer criticisms of the Royal Family in United Kingdom newspapers, he replied with a broad grin that he is not against criticism because it is essential.

"It's a very important function in a free country," he said. "No matter how much one resented ill-informed criticism, at least it gives one a clue to what people are really thinking."

He added that he has absolutely nothing against such criticism. What he did resent was innuendo and gossip that was not always true.

Hydro Chief Blasts McNaughton

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside of B.C. Hydro, Saturday, roundly condemned the "McNaughton plan" for developing the Columbia River.

The McNaughton plan would flood three times as much land as the present Columbia treaty plan, and result in a large financial deficit for 15 to 20 years, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said.

The co-chairman of the provincial hydro authority said the suggestions of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton would:

- Cost more than the present plan.
- Produce less money.
- Flood much more and better land.
- Delay the whole program of development of the river for the joint benefit of Canada and the U.S.

Dr. Keenleyside made a detailed analysis of the McNaughton plan in a speech to the annual dinner and reunion of 150 Canadian Expeditionary Force, Imperial and other veterans who served before the end of the First World War. The dinner was at Saanichton Masonic Hall.

Plans Contrasted

Dr. Keenleyside contrasted the present Columbia plan, which would flood the Columbia Valley from the Arrow Lakes, with the McNaughton plan, which would flood the Kootenay Valley.

The present plan, basis of a treaty with the U.S., requires three dams in B.C.—Duncan Lake, Arrow Lakes and Mica Creek.

The McNaughton plan would include Mica, but the main project would be diversion of the Kootenay River into the Columbia with a Luxor-Dorcy, Bull River complex of dams.

Dr. Keenleyside said the general's plan had been examined "over and over again" by engineers and economists of both federal and provincial governments.

"After consideration of all the implications involved his proposals have been repeatedly and unanimously turned down."

"These experts included members of both the Canada-B.C. policy liaison committee and the technical committee working on the present treaty."

"There was agreement in every case that the McNaughton proposals would be less beneficial to B.C. and to Canada than the projects which were finally incorporated in the treaty."

11 Reasons

Dr. Keenleyside supported these statements with a catalogue of 11 reasons:

1. The extra power provided would be only 15 per cent not the 45 per cent claimed by some people, and it would not all be firm power.
2. Flooding the East Kootenay Valley would create a 120-mile "major water barrier" 60 feet deep across the southern part of B.C.
3. A total of 90,000 acres and 2,000 people would be flooded out, compared with 30,000 acres and 2,000 people under the present plan.
4. The Americans demanded a long term contract to buy 275,000 kilowatts of power at approximately the same price as U.S. rates — only half of what it would cost Canada to produce; this would mean a $5,000,000-a-year loss.

'OP ON FER DALLAS ROAD

"Let's go guy" and "dig that crazy bus" are two comments that likely will be heard frequently this summer from kibitzers riding double-deck London buses along Victoria waterfront. Imported by Harold Olafson for a new sight-seeing service, they

SHOTS FIRED IN RHODESIA DAY OF RIOT

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—After a day of sporadic violence during which police several times fired tear gas at Negro demonstrators trying to enforce a 24-hour work stoppage, shooting broke out this afternoon.

A police spokesman said that after police suffered four separate incidents of assault and stoning they opened fire.

One report said at least four Negroes had been wounded by police gunfire.

Police said they were stoned while trying to protect Negroes returning from work in disobedience of the strike call. An army spokesman said earlier that elements of the regular all-white Rhodesian Light Infantry had been ordered in to help police maintain law and order.

SURVIVES

Another attempt on the life of President Sukarno of Indonesia failed today when an assassin tried to gun him down at a prayer meeting in Jakarta. Five other persons were wounded and the gunman arrested.

'SAD-EYED PRINCESS' WEDS PRINCE

(Times News Services)

ATHENS—Prince Juan Carlos of Spain and Princess Sophie of Greece were married today in two religious ceremonies as tens of thousands of excited Greeks cheered.

The 24-year-old princess, groomed by Generalissimo Francisco Franco to occupy the long-vacant Spanish throne, first was married to the 23-year-old daughter of Greece's rulers in his own faith at the Roman Catholic cathedral of St. Denis.

They rode together through the streets to the royal palace, smiling and waving to the cheering throngs. Then they separated and were driven to the Greek Orthodox cathedral for the orthodox ceremony required by Greek law and Sophie's faith.

GIVES APPROVAL

Pope John gave special approval of the Roman-Orthodox union after the princess pledged to bring up her children in her husband's church.

Church bells rang, artillery guns roared out a salute and a gathering of 120 royal guests along with hundreds of officials and Greek and Spanish society looked on as the prince and princess took their vows.

Juan Carlos, a curly-haired six-footer, wore the uniform of a Spanish army officer.

SAD EYES HAPPY

The tall, slim bride—known as the "sad-eyed princess"—smiled happily and was so excited she almost tripped over the 20-foot train of her wedding dress. The gown had a tightly-fitted waist and long sleeves.

Sophie was attended by eight bridesmaids, all princesses of the royal houses of Europe.

Shrum since November.

Recent meetings included a Peace River project tender opening March 8, at a hydro directors meeting March 30, at a ferry ceremony April 18, and an investment dealers' breakfast April 19.

Mr. Bennett again denied any of the $25,000,000 hydro bond issue launched at that breakfast had been bought by government agencies.

Bennett Denies Hydro 'Milked'

Premier Bennett today said reports he is "milking" his new B.C. Hydro of cash are completely erroneous.

He said articles appearing in the Vancouver Province saying B.C. Hydro is tottering as a result of this and mismanagement are "nothing but political partisan articles."

"It is part of their campaign against the premier," he said.

"The policy of this province is just opposite to milking the hydro authority. The government has made and is making millions of dollars available to B.C. Hydro through its guarantees."

Mr. Bennett explained the latest B.C. Hydro financing move as a routine government policy step.

This involves investing approximately $5,000,000 hydro operating revenue in short-term demand notes.

Mr. Bennett said the money had been invested at 3 and 3½ per cent in the Montreal Trust Co. after the government took over B.C. Electric last year.

Now it has been transferred to the PGE and Toll Authority at an interest rate of 4½ per cent.

The notes mature Oct. 31 this year "but are redeemable on demand at any time by hydro," said the premier. (The Province stories said the money was tied up in non-demand notes.)

"The notes are owned by the hydro authority and the interest accrues to the hydro authority," said Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett also said it was untrue he had not seen hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum since November.

Recent meetings included a Peace River project tender opening March 8, at a hydro directors meeting March 30, at a ferry ceremony April 18, and an investment dealers' breakfast April 19.

Harbord To Head Appeal

Two developments today virtually guaranteed that the United Appeal will be "on" again this year and with a flying start.

Justin Harbord, a city insurance executive, confirmed that he has accepted an invitation to fill the campaign chairman's post for a third time.

ISSUE NOT IN DOUBT

Community Chest president George Gregory said the organization's directors — who have been frantically looking for a campaign chairman in a last-ditch effort to save the United Appeal — will decide the issue at a meeting Friday.

However, he said he had no doubt the campaign would go forward.

Mr. Harbord is entering the field for the second time as a pinch-hitter to help the 22 Red Feather agencies.

He was campaign chairman in 1958 and Chest president the following year.

Last year, he re-assumed the presidency when a resignation left it vacant and doubled up his service by running the campaign as well.

"This is my third, and last, time," he observed today. "I accepted again as a matter of conscience."

Mr. Harbord said "too many people would be hurt if the Community Chest was dissolved and I just couldn't let that happen."

Mayor Wilson, a former Chest president, spoke to Mr. Harbord about the campaign over the weekend, hailed the acceptance as a "wonderful gesture involving terrific personal sacrifice" which would save the Chest.

"He really deserves a rest after the magnificent work he already has done for the Chest," Mayor Wilson said.

"It's now up to all of us to give Mr. Harbord and the Chest our fullest financial support."

"In the hope that others will follow and support the United Appeal to the utmost of their ability, I will give one month of my mayor's salary to the Chest this year in addition to my usual contribution."

Mayor Wilson's gesture — tribute to Mr. Harbord's renewed community service — amounts to a sizeable $500 on top of his regular donation.

Moslems Hit In Retaliation

ALGIERS (AP)—Two Jewish children were found dead in their homes today with their throats cut. Police, suspecting the killings were in retaliation for the European Secret Army's slaughter of Moslems, hunted a Moslem maid servant.

Three Europeans — two priests and a businessman — were reported to have vanished in Algiers and authorities said they apparently were spirited away by Moslems.

Monday started a controversy among Presbyterian clergymen here and drew criticism from the Canadian-born minister emeritus of one of New York City's largest Presbyterian churches.

The presbytery of New York removed Rev. Merriam and the session elders of the Broadway church from their posts.

The move was prompted, it was reported, because Rev. Merriam had introduced his dog during his inaugural sermon a year ago and his intercession with the U.S. state department over an Iranian student at Columbia University who accused the Iranian government of corruption.

The presbytery took the position that the incident threatened to embarrass the United States and cause difficulty for Presbyterian missions in Iran.

No Decision On Laos Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thailand has agreed to admit United States combat Marines from the 7th Fleet and will get further U.S. aid to shore up her anti-Communist defences, sources said today.

Informants said Gen. Paul D. Harkins, U.S. military advisory commander in South Viet Nam, conferred with Thai authorities Sunday and was given consent for the marine landings.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said no decision has been made about moving the marine landing team into Thailand.

They said the U.S. still has to make an independent decision on whether to commit that force.

It was indicated that about 1,000 of the marines will be landed, if the U.S. order is issued, and that these will be used to augment the 1,000 men of the 27th Army Infantry Regiment's battle group which is expected to move up to the Mekong River area in north-east Thailand shortly.

Kennedy's order that the military take "precautionary measures" was designed to put power behind U.S. diplomatic efforts to end the new outbreak of the Laos fighting, and to prepare for a fight if necessary.

Kennedy met with his top military and diplomatic advisors Sunday for 70 minutes, his third conference on the Laotian situation in three days. At the meeting were State Secretary Rusk, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and other officials.

Under-secretary of State George W. Ball left the conference to appear on a television interview during which he said a peaceful settlement still is possible if the Soviet Union co-operates.

RE-JAILED

Yugoslav writer and former vice-president Milovan Djilas today was sentenced to nine years and eight months for disclosing state secrets. The term included the unexpired portion of a previous sentence on a similar charge from which he had only recently been freed. The charge apparently stemmed from Djilas' latest book about Stalin. Trial was completed in less than a day.

KIRK PASTOR OUSTED, SO WORSHIPPERS QUIT

NEW YORK (CP)—Morning service at the Broadway Presbyterian Church was disrupted Sunday when more than 275 parishioners walked out to protest the ousting of their minister, Rev. Stuart Hamilton Merriam.

Removal of the minister last Monday started a controversy among Presbyterian clergymen here and drew criticism from the Canadian-born minister emeritus of one of New York City's largest Presbyterian churches.

The presbytery of New York removed Rev. Merriam and the session elders of the Broadway church from their posts.

The smallpox has again broken out among the Indians, and police plan to make an effort to remove the Hydahs and Port Renfrews from the reserve. The Chinseans and Sticks with their sick are camped on small islands in the Canal de Haro, and the Songshies, who have so far escaped the disease have taken possession of Discovery Island.

Wells, Fargo shipped a good shipment of gold dust, totalling $20,000, aboard the Ss. Pacific, for San Francisco.

The last pile that formed a portion of the Old Bridge at the foot of Johnson Street was drawn, and nothing now remains to mark the spot.

Once again it's Mister Harbord, Justin time. Are th' U.S. Marines goin' t' git thaled up in Thailand? Looks like it'll be summer b'fore we know it — at least there'll be no way o' tellin' thermometerwise.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Judy, a white and brown spaniel has disappeared from home, 1234 Oliver Street, and her eight-year-old master, Andrew Potter, is heartbroken.

She left the house "like a streak of lightning" two days ago, according to Andrew's mother, and hasn't been seen since.

Andrew has heard that some dogs run away to die and is afraid that Judy, "no longer a puppy" might have done this. The dog might have been picked up as "lost" by some kindhearted neighbor, however.

If this is the case, Andrew would like to claim his dog. Her Oak Bay licence number is 287.

Capt. L. H. Johnston, OBE, a native of Victoria, recently began command of his first Empress liner — the CPS flag-ship Empress of Canada. He sailed from Montreal to England yesterday.

Serving with Canadian Pacific Steamships since 1922, Capt. Johnston was an officer aboard the Asia which was destroyed by Japanese planes after the fall of Singapore. During the invasion of Sumatra, he escaped the Japanese at Singapore and later commanded the Prince of Wales, transporting troops in the Mediterranean.

His first command — the Gatineau Park — was followed by command of the Beaverford, Beaverlodge and Beaverbrae.

The following item was received by the Times today: "The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Magic Circle was held at the home of Ernie and Gayle Eckdahl on Friday, with the following members present:

"Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Crookford, Mr. Owen Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Simms, Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Tharner, Mr. and Mrs. John Eckdahl."

After the business meeting each magician performed several effects involving the appearing and disappearing of liquids."

Nothing escapes the eagle eye of the Silent Service. Lieutenant-Commander Maurice Turner, of Ottawa and Toronto, will soon take up the post of naval member of the joint telecommunications group, a branch of the triservices staff, at Ottawa.

Why should we know about it? An alert officer remembered that Turner had gone to St. Michael's School here, and thought we ought to know.

Governor Douglas' life, the cherry tree that stands near the Parliament Buildings, seems to be registering disapproval.

Only half the leaves on the tree have come out this year — a centennial year at that.

Wonder who the old boy's mad at? "News from Cuba," the propaganda leaflet that Fidel Castro sends me every month, has an item in it this time about the huge puppet factory recently completed in Cuba. For the manufacture of high-ranking government officials, no doubt.

CBC and Film Board Stronger Under NDP

The New Democratic Party would guard the CBC and National Film Board against "subversion by government or commercial interests," Esquimalt-Saanich candidate Geoffrey Mitchell said Saturday night.

Mr. Mitchell said the NDP would strengthen these publicly-owned organizations and would also ensure that the Canada Council was "godparent to the arts."

He was speaking to a group of Victoria College New Democratic Club members at his home in Metchosin.

"If Canada is to come into its own, no talent, whether technical, scientific or artistic, can be permitted to remain undiscovered," he said.

"All abilities must be developed if we are to be of use to ourselves and the world."

The other local NDP candidate, Harry Panthorpe, of Victoria, opened his campaign Saturday at a tea in Woods' north Hall on Courtney Street.

It was a shake-hands meeting attended by about 150 persons, said an NDP spokesman, night.

5. The McNaughton plan would have resulted in fewer downstream benefits to Canada's credit—a loss of "several millions" a year.

6. The McNaughton plan would have prevented development of very low cost power by Cominco on the West Kootenay.

7. The plan had "difficult and costly" engineering problems and possibly could not have been completed in time to meet U.S. requirements.

8. It would not have permitted such high benefit-cost ratio as the Arrow Lakes-Duncan treaty plan.

9. The general's plan would have created an erratic flow on the Columbia River, causing wide fluctuation of at-site power generation in Canada.

Recreation Effect

10. It would also seriously affect the recreational potential of the Columbia and Windermere Lakes region, which should become "a major playground area."

11. Diversion of the Kootenay would not be possible until the entire Canadian Columbia development had been finished—meaning that for 15 to 20 years the heavy cost (more than $1,000,000,000) would be charged to a small power production; a "large financial deficit would be built up in the early years."

After a long personal association with the general, Dr. Keenleyside said he holds him "in the very highest regard."

"He is a man of great ability and of complete integrity. He is a great Canadian."

"Because I hold him in such high regard, both as a friend and as a public servant, it is to me a cause of profound regret to see him, as he approaches the end of his remarkable career, entering into a controversy in which he is opposed by all informed opinion except his own."

Better Treaty

Dr. Keenleyside said it has been suggested that Ottawa favored a better treaty plan—the McNaughton scheme—which B.C. turned down.

"The program that B.C. turned down included the flooding of both the Arrow Lakes region and the East Kootenay Valley," said Dr. Keenleyside.

He said Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson is on record as calling for renegotiation of the treaty, in a way that "a man like Gen. McNaughton" would approve.

"But he has very carefully refrained from saying that his party if elected would implement the McNaughton plan because he knows that if he proposed any such action he would be going against the advice of all the power experts in the federal service," said Dr. Keenleyside.

He said that there could have been a better treaty if it had been written to suit Canada alone; but it had to suit the Americans, too.

He said that if reporters wanted to write that the Second Commonwealth Study Conference, of which he is chairman, and his role in it were tripe, that would be perfectly legitimate criticism.

But if newspapers wrote that he was "misbehaving in Canada," that would be innuendo and gossip.

"How do you answer it?" Prince Philip said the conference was not designed to strengthen Commonwealth relations, but to make use of the fact the Commonwealth exists.

WIDER FIELD LIKELY? As for the wider world community, "I would be perfectly happy if a larger conference of this kind were held under the auspices of the United Nations. If it can be done, more power to them."

During his stay he hopes "to take in parts of Canadian life I haven't seen before."

Asked to elaborate on this, he said: "Well I hope to do a bit of fishing and see some of the agricultural activities on the Prairies."

Key Hydro Staff Based In Vancouver

Top staff of B.C. Hydro here will move to Vancouver.

No definite time has been set, but some of them will be going shortly.

Expected among the movers is hydro co-chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, who at present commutes to Vancouver.

B.C. Hydro headquarters offices are definitely established in Vancouver and some of the key personnel in Victoria will go there.

However, there will be no general layoffs or firings in Victoria.

Premier Bennett and hydro officials have assured present staff that their jobs are safe and that the normal annual turnover—about 5 per cent—will be maintained.

SOCRED PARTY ADOPT TARTAN

HAMILTON (CP) — A wee bit of Scotland was included Sunday in the Social Credit weekend with announcement of the adoption of a tartan for the party by leader Robert Thompson here.

The tartan is the Thomson tartan, which contains the Social Credit party colors—green and white—on a black and tan background. It was assumed by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, now living in England. The Social Credit leader is not Scottish, but his family changed its name from Asvanger after leaving Norway to settle in Alberta.

"So what?" you might ask. "Who cares if the carb's clean as long as it works all right?" That's the point of course. Pile up of dirt, fumes and grime in the carburetor can cause rough idling, even stalling. Especially in stop-and-start city traffic. "So I adjust the mix", you say. Fine. Only trouble is a richer mix means you burn more gas. And finally you have to clean the carburetor anyway — and this means a service charge.

"So, what's so special about Royalite gasoline?" you ask, weakening. Just this: a detergent ingredient in Royalite gasoline will clean out grimy carbs and keep them clean. No need for a richer mix. You save on gasoline and get smoother idling, non-stall city driving. Drive in to Royalite today and fill up with gasoline that cleans as you drive. Enjoy friendly Royalite service too, from one of more than 200 Royalite dealers in British Columbia.

Prices, Volumes Dwindle

By PETER DUNN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Optimism sparked two weeks ago by the pegging of the Canadian dollar faded quickly last week, as the stock market wiped out previous gains and headed toward its low point of the year.

The previous nine-point climb by the Toronto industrial index, compiled of 20 representative industrial stocks, gave way to a 16-point drop, leaving that section at 610.10—less than two points above the 1952 low point of 599.68 touched on Jan. 24.

Much of this decline came Wednesday when industrialists sustained their worst single-session setback in more than two years—an index drop of almost seven points.

Daily volumes dwindled with the downward trend, never once rising to 3,000,000 shares. Institutional buyers, prominent in the market earlier this year, displayed little interest and the number of big block sales was insignificant.

OILS NOSEDIVE
Lows for the year were touched by EA Oil and Imperial Oil, both trading more actively than in recent weeks. The stocks dipped $1.87 and $2.12 respectively. Other losses of $1 or more went to Alberta Gas, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines and Trans-Prairie Pipelines.

Among the steels, Steel Company of Canada dropped to its lowest price this year—$19.87 on a post-Tour-for-one split basis—down $1.12, before recovering slightly. Algoma, Atlas, Canadian Vickers and Dominion Bridge all fell in a $1.12 to $1.87 range.

Bank of Nova Scotia showed the only gain in financial institutions, rising fractionally. Argus Corporation took the sharp set-back, dropping $5 to $43.25. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce declined to its lowest level of 1962, down $1 at $25, while Industrial Acceptance and Toronto-Dominion Bank both dipped more than $1.

PAPER, ONE OF THE PRICES TO benefit most from the lower dollar rate, lost a good part of previous gains. Abitibi, Fraser Companies and Eddy Paper A dropped in a $1 to $2 range, while MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River and Consolidated Paper each fell just under $1.

METALS DECLINE
No stock among the senior base metals list advanced. Falconbridge, Frohiser, International Nickel and Labrador all fell $1 or more.

Gold, however, retained some of its earlier strength, with Campbell Red Lake, Giant Yellowknife and Macassa all advancing fractionally.

The Western oil list showed an almost unbroken string of minus signs, with a handful of junior issues dipping to 1962 lows. Such senior issues as Calgary and Edmonton, Dome Petroleum, Home B and Pacific Petroleum fell as much as $1. Most active among speculative mines were Abacus, Wilsey-Coghlan, Central Forepine and Black Bay Uranium, but price changes were generally slight.

HIGH-WIRE ACT is performed by Richard Stewart as he inches up catwalk alongside main cable of Scotland's new Forth Road bridge, which spans the Firth of Forth between North and South Queensferry in West Lothian. Spinning wheel in background stretches cables between suspension points. Some 30,000 miles of wire were used for main suspension cables. The new span, more than a mile and a half long, is expected to open for traffic in mid-1963. It will be the longest suspension bridge in Europe. (AP Wirephoto.)

BUSINESS VIEWS

Canada No U.S. 'Tax Haven'

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor
Canada is not, in the true sense, a "tax haven" for U.S. investment.

Nevertheless, the proposed amendment to the U.S. Revenue Code, designed among other things to stop tax abuses by some U.S. companies and individuals, is going to have an effect in Canada which could greatly accelerate Ottawa's difficulties in maintaining the dollar at its pegged level of 92½ cents U.S.

Several sections of the bill, which has passed the House of Representatives and is considered likely to pass the Senate and receive the president's signature within a few weeks, are also aimed at U.S. investment in developed countries—which would include most of Western Europe and Canada.

This would be effected by eliminating the 44-year-old privilege of deferring U.S. tax on undistributed earnings until they are repatriated.

This would mean that U.S. firms with investments abroad would no longer have the option of repatriating earnings at the most favorable opportunities—better foreign exchange rates, better domestic tax rates—but would be taxed on an annual basis.

In addition, the bill provides that U.S. firms selling a foreign subsidiary or any part of it would be taxed on the profit at current income rates rather than on a capital gains basis.

According to Business Week magazine, these two clauses have led a number of U.S. firms to prepare cablegrams to foreign subsidiaries ordering immediate liquidation if the bill passes the Senate intact, and before it is signed into law by the president.

Fortunately for Canada the new Revenue Code has a relatively smaller effect on U.S. subsidiaries which have already fulfilled major capital investment plans.

These firms would continue to get credit for Canadian taxes paid under the existing Canadian-U.S. treaty although the U.S. tax would be levied on a "gross-up" basis, meaning that foreign excise and sales taxes would not be taken into account as formerly.

This will cut net dividends to U.S. companies from their Canadian subsidiaries and will definitely make Canada a less attractive investment for U.S. capital.

In some cases—impossible to predict how many—the provisions of this bill will lead to winding up of U.S. subsidiaries in this country on a forced-sale basis and repatriation of the capital to the U.S.

Thus, pressure on the Canadian dollar stabilization fund—already at an intolerable level when Mr. Fleming announced further devaluation and pegging of the dollar—will be further increased.

U.S. investment in Canada now totals close to $20 billion, much of it through subsidiaries directly controlled by a U.S. parent firm.

The Canadian dollar stabilization fund is estimated now to be holding less than $1.5 billion. Thus even a minimum of liquidation of U.S. capital in Canada, coupled with existing pressure on the dollar, could empty the fund and force Canada to borrow from the International Monetary Fund.

A boost in the domestic price of copper has been announced by Noranda Sales Corp. as a direct result of devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

Noranda copper now sells at 31½ cents a pound, up 1½ cents from the price established May 18, 1961.

International Nickel, which was forced to rescind a half-cent boost to 30½ cents just before devaluation, can be expected to post an increase shortly.

Largest single interest in Calgary and Edmonton Corp. has been acquired by Superior Oil Co. of Los Angeles, which disclosed that it now owned 21.908, or approximately 10 per cent of C and E's 2,415,000 issued shares.

Superior is believed to have bought 235,400 shares from dissident groups in C and E, including the Keyoil mining interests and Crow's Nest Pass Coal interests, and the balance on the open market.

A superior official said the interest was bought "as an investment" and that his firm might consider acquiring a larger stake in the Alberta oil company.

Taxpayers might be inclined to give a fishy glance at the annual report of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd., which showed net profit of $3.3 million.

Hollinger had a loss of $705,787 on its gold mining operations but received federal government aid of $1,666,196 to offset the loss.

On net consolidated profit, therefore, the government grant totalled better than 40 per cent.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, MAY 14, 1962 - PAGE 19

MONTE ROBERTS

I hope you are as thrilled as I am that Campbell River has acquired its very own ever-loving sea monster, name of Klamahotaurus.

Mind you, he's a sort of junior-type sea monster, only about 18 or 20 feet long and, according to the Indians of the Klamahot tribe (for whom he is named) just 80 years old.

But even a young, small, sea monster is better than no sea monster at all, and congratulations are in order for the keen-visioned residents of the Duncan Bay area who have confirmed the existence of Klammy, if I may coin an affectionate diminutive.

Naturally, I have been anxious to discuss our new friend Caddy with the senior sea serpent afloat, Cadborosaurus, and on Sunday I found time to slip down to our secret rendezvous point on the shore of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Perching myself on a Strait-side rock, I summoned Caddy with our secret sub-sonar whistle, and, as soon as his radar persuaded him there were no other witnesses, he surfaced, with a great shaking of water from his mane and blowing of ballast from his main tanks.

... conversation, affixing me with one of his sealed-beam eyes. "You've heard about that new chap up Island?" "Yes, and I'm so enthusiastic," I said. "Another of you wonderful monsters allowing himself to be seen by the general public."

"Took this character long enough," grumbled Caddy. "Shy type, you know. Generation after generation, would only let true native sons see him. Knew true native sons would keep their traps shut as they silently strode through the silent woods."

"But now that he's officially here and will soon be on the Publicity Bureau coming events list, aren't you pleased?" I asked.

"Not very," said Caddy, fretfully flicking a clump of seaweed in my general direction.

"Caddy!" I cried. "Don't tell me you're jealous!" "Jealous!" snorted Caddy (oh, well, the suit I was wearing was due for the cleaners anyway). "Jealous! Me jealous of an 18-foot baby!"

"No, sir," said Caddy. "There's always room for one more, the more the merrier, and in union there is strength."

"The reason I am not very happy," Caddy went on, "is because the people who described this new chap—I believe you referred to him as Klammy—said he looked like a kangaroo."

"This takes me back," said Caddy, morosely, "to the first time I was sighted, and people said I had a head like a camel and a mane like a horse, with a body like a giant snake."

"I ask you," Caddy went on, "how can a sea-monster have any self-respect when he is forever being described as resembling someone else?"

"There will come a day, and it may take a revolution to achieve this—there will come a day when camels are described as having a head like Cadborosaurus, and kangaroos will be known as creatures closely resembling Klamahotaurus."

"Let me know when this happens," Caddy said, swishing about eight gallons of sea water in my general direction as he slid off into the depths, undoubtedly headed for Duncan Bay to explain to the new chap how he had told me off.

Lucky 'Buck' Now Luckier For Who?

Victoria's lucky centennial dollar bill is now worth $200 after a week of fruitless phoning by officials trying to give away $100.

The souvenir bills are currently on sale at centennial headquarters, 1309 Douglas; City Hall, through centennial committee members and the St. Patrick's men's club.

JOSEPH (JOE) EASTICK 37 years a printer

Death Comes To Respected City Printer

The Victoria Daily Times went to press today without the services of one of its best-loved printers.

Joseph William Eastick, 53, a member of The Times printing staff since 1925, died suddenly in the garden of his home at 1637 Oak Bay Avenue Saturday evening—a few hours after his day's work was finished.

Characteristically, he had been mowing a neighbor's lawn and was about to start on his own. He was seen to wince as he started the motor and when members of the family reached him he was unconscious.

The fire department inhalator was called and Mr. Eastick was taken by ambulance to Royal Jubilee Hospital, where a doctor pronounced him dead.

He is mourned by a large circle of friends, many of whom had known him since childhood. Born in Victoria, he attended Victoria West and Victoria High Schools and later became active in Freemasonry.

He was a past master of United Service Lodge No. 24, AF and AM, and a past principal of Columbia Royal Arch Chapter No. 1. At one time he was an enthusiastic amateur boxer.

His son, Lawrence, now attending Victoria High School, won the silver medal of the Royal Conservatory of Music in 1959 for attaining the highest marks in B.C. in Grade 5 speech arts examination.

At the time of his death, Mr. Eastick was desk man in the composing room and linotype operator with The Times.

He is also survived by his widow, Margaret; a younger son, Eric, who is a student at University School; a brother, T. C. Eastick, and a sister, Mrs. George Boulton, both of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements, arranged by Hayward's, will be held in St. Barnabas Church, Belmont and Begbie, next Wednesday at 3.30 p.m. Rev. Canon H. Butler will officiate.

Two-Car Crash Kills Three Near Nanaimo

Head-On Collision Near Top of Hill

Three men were killed Saturday night in a two-car head-on collision about five miles south of Nanaimo on the Trans-Canada Highway.

There were the only occupants.

Dead are Alexander Gillespie of Nanaimo, David Allen of Cumberland, and Ronald Lewis Chafer of Union Bay, near Courtenay.

Gillespie, 40, was a boatman, and lived at 204 Kennedy. Chafer, about 22, was driving south in his 1955 a "young fellow about the same age," when the accident occurred.

Both Chafer's car and the 1962 Chevy II driven by Gillespie were "wiped out back to the second door," according to a witness.

INSTANT DEATH

One of the victims died instantly, a second about 30 minutes later, and the third about an hour after that.

The crash occurred at the top of a long hill, and drove both cars off the road and almost into a deep ditch.

Police said one of the cars pulled out to pass another, and met the oncoming car.

Both vehicles apparently tried to pull off the highway to avoid collision, but struck head on.

Nanaimo RCMP said that the bodies will be viewed tonight, and a date for the inquest set.

'U' CHIEF INVOLVED IN PLOT?

University of B.C.'s new president, Dr. John B. MacDonald, today was accused of being an undercover agent for fluoridationists.

The anti-fluoridation B.C. Pure Water Association darkly hinted at a plot to introduce the health measure by government decree.

In a circular letter, received by City Hall, the association spokesman, L. Greenall of Cloverdale, pointed out Dr. MacDonald, who came from Harvard University, was a dentist by profession.

"It is the opinion of our contacts in Ontario that the main reason he has been sent here is to break the 'fluoridation impasse peculiar to B.C.," as Chief Justice Hall described it."

The chief justice currently is chairman of a royal commission on health.

Hockey Backers To Meet Tuesday With Arena Board

A Victoria group trying to bring a professional hockey club back to the city will meet with the arena commission Tuesday for preliminary discussions.

Spokesman for the hockey group said it is hoped a deal can be arrived at for use of the rink before a franchise bid is made at the WHL annual meeting May 25. The Victoria group will not know if they have any players from the Toronto Maple Leafs until June 12.

Centennial Fair Opens Six-Day Run

The Victoria Centennial Exhibition opened its doors at 2 p.m. today but will not be officially opened until 9.55 tonight.

At that time, Dr. Phyllis Ross, Chancellor of the University of British Columbia, will speak a few words from the main stage of the Memorial Arena and formally unveil the 1962 fair.

All proceeds of the six-day exhibition have been pledged to Victoria College for construction of a radio isotope laboratory.

Thirty Jaycees and an equal number of Jayettes have taken the week off their normal duties to pilot the week's events.

During the week stage shows will be three times daily and at 7.30 p.m., each evening the 10 contestants for the Miss Victoria crown will parade in the Arena.

Agricultural exhibits and judging will last throughout the fair. Business booth leases are 25 per cent higher than the previous exhibition record.

FIRST TWO Miss Victoria contestants to display their talents before the public on stage at Jaycee Fair tonight will be Della Irwin, 18 (left), and Sharon Page, 18. Della, a student at Victoria College, will present a series of mixed dances and Sharon, who likes to knit and sew, will model and comment on a dress which she made. Each night of the fair two of the 10 princesses will exhibit their particular skill. On Saturday evening Miss Victoria will be chosen from the 10, and be crowned by last year's winner, Nina Holden, Miss Canada 1962.

'Easy Steal' Of $1,000 Baffling

Police today were somewhat baffled by the ease with which more than $1,000 was stolen from the safe of a finance company's office during the weekend. The theft was discovered this morning when employees of Canadian Acceptance Corp., 1051 Fort Street, arrived for work.

The office is situated on the second floor of the Medical Clinic Building. Employees found the main door to the building open, doors leading into the office open and the safe door open.

There were no signs of a forced entry, and the safe wasn't damaged, police said.

It is not yet known whether the thief or thieves used a set of keys or whether he was "invited" in via unlocked doors.

"As far as we know all the doors were locked after we closed for the weekend Saturday morning," said manager D. M. Wallace. "However, we can not rule out the possibility that some doors—including the safe door—may have been left open."

The company lost $1,056.70 in cash. "They left some cheques behind in the safe," Mr. Wallace said.

Election Campaign on TV Tonight

OTTAWA (UPI) — The federal election campaign moves on to the television screen tonight with all four political parties offering their "image" to viewers who'll see it on the tube.

Each party had 15 minutes of free network time and a new set of ground rules to work on for the opening round.

Observers were keeping a close eye on all of them for signs of how important television might be in the current campaign as well as evidence of which party is closest to mastering the difficult medium.

16 Europeans Slain by Moslems

ALGIERS (AP) — Algerian nationalist commandos surged out of the Casbah by car and afoot late today and machine-gunned at least 16 Europeans to death and wounded 24 others in widespread attacks throughout the city.

New Labor Troubles Hit U.K. Docks

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters) — Nearly 300 crane drivers, mechanics and electricians went on strike here today in a dispute arising from the introduction of a time-clock system.

Fourteen cargo ships, loading or unloading, were affected by the stoppage. Several hundred stevedores, unable to work because none of the cranes was operating, were sent home at noon.

2 Quebec Tory MPs Decline to Run

MONTREAL (CP) — C. E. Campeau, Progressive Conservative member for Montreal St. Jacques, said Monday he will not seek re-election in the June 18 general election.

In Quebec City, Dr. Perrault LaRue, Progressive Conservative member for Saguenay, said he would not be a candidate this year, also for personal reasons.

He declined to elaborate but said, "I may say June 19."

Dr. LaRue won the seat from the Liberals in 1958.

'JUGGERNAUT'

Check Industry, Philip Advises

MONTREAL (CP) — Prince Philip today described industry as "a juggernaut that tends to run away with people."

It has to be held in check and controlled by the people who operate it, he told a breakfast press conference.

The session was a prelude to the prince's Second Commonwealth Study Conference, opening later today at the University of Montreal.

In a precise and friendly manner, the prince replied without hesitation to a wide variety of questions—some of them on topics such as the European Common Market, Quebec separatism and criticism of the Royal Family—and tried to put them all in the perspective of the study conference.

Object of the conference, he said, is to make people worry about the industrial juggernaut.

"Its importance will be in the effect it has on the people who participate," he said.

The worst aspects of industrial change weigh upon management as well as labor, he said. "Both sides get ideas."

Then, glancing at Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, who was sitting at his right, Prince Philip said with a broad smile:

"Perhaps when you get to be a labor leader, you get the worst variety of ulcer."

SHOTS FIRED IN RHODESIA DAY OF RIOT

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — After a day of sporadic violence during which police several times fired tear gas at Negro demonstrators trying to enforce a 24-hour work stoppage, shooting broke out this afternoon.

A police spokesman said that after police suffered four separate incidents of assault and stoning they opened fire.

One report said at least four Negroes had been wounded by police gunfire.

Police said they were stoned while trying to protect Negroes returning from work in disobedience of the strike call.

An army spokesman said earlier that elements of the regular all-white Rhodesian Light Infantry had been ordered in to help police maintain law and order.

Volunteer Chairman Third Time

Two developments today virtually guaranteed that the United Appeal will be "on" again this year and with a flying start.

Justin Harbord, a city insurance executive, confirmed that he has accepted an invitation to fill the campaign chairman's post for a third time.

Mayor R. B. Wilson immediately urged everyone to help the campaign with their dollars and backed his words with deeds — pledging a month's mayoralty salary of $500 to the campaign in addition to his normal contribution.

Community Chest president George Gregory said the organization's directors — who have been frantically looking for a campaign chairman in a last-ditch effort to save the United Appeal — will decide the issue at a meeting Friday. However, he said he had no doubt the campaign would go forward.

Mr. Harbord is entering the field for the second time as a pinch-hitter to help the 22 Red Feather agencies.

DOUBLE DUTY

Last year, he re-assumed the presidency when a resignation left it vacant and doubled up his service by running the campaign as well.

"This is my third, and last, time," he observed today. "I accepted again as a matter of conscience."

Mr. Harbord said "too many people would be hurt if the Community Chest was dissolved and I just couldn't let that happen."

Mayor Wilson, a former Chest president, spoke to Mr. Harbord about the campaign over the weekend, hailed the acceptance as a "wonderful gesture involving terrific personal sacrifice" which would save the Chest.

"He really deserves a rest after the magnificent work he already has done for the Chest," Mayor Wilson said.

"It's now up to all of us to give Mr. Harbord and the Chest our fullest financial support."

"In the hope that others will follow and support the United Appeal to the utmost of their ability, I will give one month of my mayor's salary to the Chest this year in addition to my usual contribution."

Mayor Wilson's gesture in tribute to Mr. Harbord's renewed community service amounts to a sizeable $500 on top of his regular donation.

RE-JAILED

Yugoslav writer and former vice-president Milovan Djilas today was sentenced to eight years and eight months for disclosing state secrets. The term included the unexpired portion of a previous sentence on a similar charge from which he had only recently been freed.

The charge apparently stemmed from Djilas' latest book about Stalin. Trial was completed in less than a day.

Bennett Denies Hydro 'Milked'

Premier Bennett today said reports he is "milking" his new B.C. Hydro of cash are completely erroneous.

He said articles appearing in the Vancouver Province saying B.C. Hydro is tottering as a result of this and mismanagement are "nothing but political partisan articles."

"It is part of their campaign against the premier," he said.

"The policy of this province is just opposite to milking the hydro authority."

"The government has made and is making millions of dollars available to B.C. Hydro through its guarantees."

Mr. Bennett explained the latest B.C. Hydro financing move as a routine government policy step.

This involves investing approximately $5,000,000 hydro operating revenue in short-term demand notes.

Mr. Bennett said the money had been invested at 3 and 3 1/2 per cent in the Montreal Trust Co. after the government took over B.C. Electric last year.

Now it has been transferred to the PGE and Toll Authority at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent.

The notes mature Oct. 31 this year "but are redeemable

Talks Urged

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today proposed immediate negotiations for a treaty to prohibit the use of outer space for military purposes.

U.S. delegate Charles Stelle made the proposal to the 17-nation disarmament conference. There was no immediate reaction from Soviet delegate Valerian Zorn.

No Decision On Laos Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thailand has agreed to admit United States combat Marines from the 7th Fleet and will get further U.S. aid to shore up her anti-Communist defenses, sources said today.

Informants said Gen. Paul D. Harkins, U.S. military advisory commander in South Viet Nam, conferred with Thai authorities Sunday and was given consent for the marine landings.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said no decision has been made about moving the marine landing team into Thailand.

They said the U.S. still has to make an independent decision on whether to commit that force.

It was indicated that about 1,000 of the marines will be landed, if the U.S. order is issued, and that these will be used to augment the 1,000 men of the 27th Army Infantry Regiment's battle group which is expected to move up to the Mekong River area in north-east Thailand shortly.

Kennedy's order that the military take "precautionary measures" was designed to put power behind U.S. diplomatic efforts to end the new outbreak of the Laos fighting, and to prepare for a fight if necessary.

Kennedy met with his top military and diplomatic advisors Sunday for 70 minutes, his third conference on the Laotian situation in three days. At the meeting were State Secretary Rusk, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and other officials.

Under-secretary of State George W. Ball left the conference to appear on a television interview during which he said a peaceful settlement still is possible if the Soviet Union co-operates.

Keenleyside Hits McNaughton Plan

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside of B.C. Hydro Saturday roundly condemned the "McNaughton plan" for developing the Columbia River.

The McNaughton plan would flood three times as much land as the present Columbia treaty plan, and result in a large financial deficit for 15 to 20 years, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said.

The co-chairman of the provincial hydro authority said the suggestions of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton would:

- Cost more than the present plan.
- Produce less money.
- Flood much more and better land.
- Delay the whole program of development of the river for the joint benefit of Canada and the U.S.

Dr. Keenleyside made a detailed analysis of the McNaughton plan in a speech to the annual dinner and reunion of 150 Canadian Expeditionary Force, Imperial and other veterans who served before the end of the First World War. The dinner was at Saanichton Masonic Hall.

Dr. Keenleyside contrasted the present Columbia plan, which would flood the Arrow Lakes, with the McNaughton plan, which would flood the Kootenay Valley.

The present plan, basis of a treaty with the U.S., requires three dams in B.C.—Duncan Lake, Arrow Lakes and Mica Creek.

The McNaughton plan would include Mica, but the main project would be diversion of the Kootenay River into the Columbia with a Lakoo-Dorr-Bull River complex of dams.

Dr. Keenleyside said the general plan had been examined "over and over again" by engineers and economists of both federal and provincial governments.

"After consideration of all the implications involved his proposals have been repeatedly and unanimously turned down."

These experts included members of both the Canada-B.C. policy liaison committee and the technical committee working on the present treaty.

LESS BENEFICIAL

"There was agreement in every case that the McNaughton proposals would be less beneficial to B.C. and to Canada than the projects which were finally incorporated in the treaty."

Dr. Keenleyside supported these statements with a catalogue of 11 reasons:

1. The extra power provided would be only 15 per cent not the 45 per cent claimed by some people, and it would not all be firm power.
2. Flooding the East Kootenay Valley would create a 120-mile "major water barrier" 60 feet deep across the southern part of B.C.
3. A total of 90,000 acres and 2,000 people would be flooded out, compared with 30,000 acres and 2,000 people under the present plan.
4. The Americans demanded a long term contract to buy 275,000 kilowatts of power at approximately the same price as U.S. rates — only half of what it would cost Canada to produce; this would mean a $5,000,000-a-year loss.

This modified 1924 coupe is the car that a Shell research team drove to a Mileage Marathon record. They used the same gasoline that you could buy at any Shell station.

How a Shell research team got 202.32 miles per gallon— and how you can boost your car's mileage.

Surely, 202.32 miles per gallon must be a world record. Here's how this fantastic mark was set—and how a combination of driving technique, better car care, and today's Super Shell can help you get better mileage.

SOME TIME AGO, a group of Shell scientists had a friendly argument. The gist of it: who could get the most miles from a gallon of gasoline. They decided to find out. And Shell's Mileage Marathon was born.

All contestants had to use the same gasoline anybody could buy at a Shell station. Beyond that, the Marathon had few rules. And ingenuity ran wild.

Here are some of the extreme techniques the winning team used to set their record of 202.32 miles per gallon.

- They removed the engine cooling fan to save power and muffled the radiator to retain heat.
- They used tires that had been worn smooth—then pumped them up to 50 pounds pressure. This cut rolling friction to a bare minimum.
- Light oils were used in both engine and transmission. Wheel bearings were oiled instead of greased—all to reduce friction.
- On the road, they accelerated to 20 miles per hour, then cut the ignition and rolled until their speed dropped to 5 mph. This cycle was repeated throughout the Marathon.

11 tips from Shell to help you boost your car's mileage

These weird devices are certainly not the recommended thing for you or your car. But here are 11 simple, sensible tips from Shell to help you boost your car's mileage.

1. Don't race your engine when standing still. It wastes gasoline—and gets you nowhere. Have your Shell dealer check your engine's idling speed, too. If it's too fast, you're squandering fuel and money.
2. Avoid jackrabbit starts. Any car that is accelerated violently has an unquenchable thirst for gasoline.
3. Drive at moderate speeds. You'll get there safely—and more economically. Most cars use about 25 per cent more gasoline at 65 mph than at 45.
4. Pace yourself in traffic. Look ahead—anticipate. Don't be trapped into wasteful spurts or fast braking.
5. Use Super Shell. One of its nine ingredients, Platformate, is made up of super-energy components that contain 7 per cent more useful energy than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline. On the highway, this extra energy turns up in extra mileage.
Another Super Shell ingredient, TCP, works to neutralize engine deposits that cut power—reduce mileage.
And a third, mixed pentanes, helps your engine warm up fast. (Engines are inefficient while cold—use more gasoline).
6. Have your Shell dealer clean, check and re-gap your spark plugs. When plugs are dirty or worn, you can expect your gasoline bills to be higher than they need be.

Worn points or incorrect spark timing can have the same expensive effect. Many Shell dealers are fully equipped to look after your car's timing—to set it right on the dot for top performance—and top mileage.

7. A clogged air cleaner can starve your engine of air—caused it to run on an over-rich gasoline mixture and allow dirt particles to scour cylinders. Have the filter cleaned (or replaced if necessary) by your Shell dealer.

8. Ask your Shell dealer to check your brakes for adjustment. Brake linings rubbing against the drums hold a car back drastically. Gasoline is wasted overcoming the resistance.

9. An engine that is running either too hot or too cold uses more gasoline. Your cooling system should be drained and flushed twice a year by your Shell dealer. This prevents corrosion and clogging of vital water passages.

The thermostat should be checked at the same time. Make sure you don't leave the winter thermostat in during summer.

10. Use Shell X-100 Premium* Motor Oil. Until it is thoroughly warmed up, an engine has to work hard against the resistance set up by a thick, cold oil. New Shell X-100 Premium overcomes this difficulty. It is a multi-viscosity oil. It flows freely, will not thicken up in the coldest weather—but also resists thinning out when hot.

X-100 Premium always lubricates efficiently—is never too thick or too thin. It is also the only multi-viscosity oil that cannot create power-robbing metallic ash deposits in your car's combustion chamber.

11. Always keep your tires at the proper pressure. Soft tires soak up power like a blotter soaks up ink.

*Reg'd Trade Mark

Motorists who follow these rules, and turn in at the Shell sign, can expect good mileage. Now you know how, why not give it a try. Your pocketbook will notice the difference.

Super Shell has 9 ingredients for power, mileage, quiet running —top performance.

- #1 is Platformate for extra mileage.
- #2 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for power with a purr.
- #3 is TCP—neutralizes deposits, increases power, mileage and plug life.
- #4 is anti-knock mix—fights all kinds of knock.
- #5 is heavy alkanes—controls high-speed knock.
- #6 is Butane—for quick starts.
- #7 is mixed pentanes—for fast warm-ups.
- #8 is a carburetor defroster.
- #9 is gum preventive—for clean carburetors.
